The temperature dropped to 31 degrees in the heatless city and frost covered lawns and other open ground in outlying areas.

Union President Is Heart Victim

A. G. Braden, Newburgh, Dies While Hunting Near Gardiner

Anthony G. Braden, 45, Teamsters' brotherhood president from Newburgh, died of a heart attack while hunting near Gardiner Sunday. He lived at 6 Maple street, Newburgh.

Galletta issued a verdict of death by natural causes following an investigation of the death, which occurred while Braden and his son, Thomas, 18, were hunting in the woods near Rogers Gas Station about one mile west of Gardiner at noon. The son was about 150 yards away when he saw his father fall dead after he had been hunting about one hour. State police of Highland were summoned and investigated with the coroner.

Braden was president and business representative of Newburgh Local 445, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers. He had been a representative of that local since 1932, and was delegate to Building Trades Councils in Ulster, Orange, Dutchess, Sullivan and Rockland counties.

President to Address UN; Flies Direct From Parley

GOP Heads Keep Silent In Dispute

McCarthy Colleagues Agree on Trade Ban but Not on White House Challenge

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—With the evident hope that the whole matter will blow over soon, Republican congressional leaders kept discreet silence today in the controversy between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and the White House.

It was obvious that some of McCarthy's most influential GOP colleagues agreed privately with his statement that the United States should stop all aid to free world nations which trade with Red China.

But it also was obvious that these same Republicans didn't want to be linked with McCarthy's public challenge to the stand taken by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles that America has no right to dictate the trade policies of the countries it helps.

McCarthy called any trade with Red China "blood trade" and, in a televised plea last Thursday, urged the people who agree with him to wire or write the President.

Tally Is Due Today
The White House was scheduled today to give a new count on the number of telegrams and letters it has received as a result.

Up until noon Saturday, Asst. Presidential Press Secretary Murray Snyder said 4,346 telegrams had come in, with 3,500 still to be teletyped from Western Union to the White House.

McCarthy disputed these figures, saying that at the same hour he was informed 8,427 telegrams had been delivered and 4,000 to 6,000 more remained to be transmitted. Snyder said the telegrams ran about 2-1 in favor of McCarthy's position.

Snyder also reported receipt of 1,500 letters and said a breakdown of how these were running would be announced today, also.

On an NBC radio-TV forum yesterday McCarthy said "both sides" should message their views to the President.

"This is not a popularity contest between Eisenhower and McCarthy," the senator said. "If it were a popularity contest, he (Eisenhower) would win it 20-1."

Senator Scores Paper
McCarthy was asked about the Toledo Blade's offer Friday to accept readers' signatures to a letter supporting Eisenhower's stand, as well as to forward replies favoring McCarthy's. By midnight Friday, the paper reported, it had 9,870 for Eisenhower and 324 for McCarthy.

In comment, McCarthy said, "it shows how dishonest a paper can get."

He said the sentiments expressed in the letter to Eisenhower ("we supported you before and we do now. We still like Ike.") were those he had expressed many times. Yet, he said, the effect was "that anyone who signed that, had to be against McCarthy."

Engravers Call Members to Meet In 10-Day Strike

Meeting Is Summoned for Wednesday by Union President; No End Seen

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Union photo-engravers today called a membership meeting for Wednesday in their 10-day old strike against six major New York city daily newspapers.

Denis M. Burke, president of Local 1, AFL International Photo-Engravers Union, announced the call as he arrived for scheduled talks with the publishers and federal mediators.

Burke said the meeting, the first membership session in a week would be held "even if only to make a report to the members."

At the meeting a week ago the union membership rejected arbitration for a second time, but scaled their demands down from a $15 to a $7.50 weekly package. Burke has indicated that any proposal made by the publishers below that figure would require membership approval. This probably would mean that the strike would continue at least two days more.

Confer With Publishers
Burke was 70 minutes late for the resumption of bargaining sessions called by Walter A. Magglo, general counsel of the federal mediation and conciliation service.

Before Burke arrived, Magglo and two other federal mediators conferred with representatives of the publishers.

Magglo called for the talks after meeting last night with representatives of the AFL Allied Printing Trades Council, whose members have been refusing to cross picket lines set up by the AFL International Photo-Engravers Union.

The photo-engravers struck the newspapers in a dispute over wages and other contract issues. About 400 photo engravers are involved, and their picket lines have idled 20,000 employees belonging to the CIO American Newspaper Guild and the pressmen's, stereotypers', printers' and mailers' affiliate of the Printing Trades Council, and other unionists.

Key Developments Occur
Yesterday brought two key developments in the strike:

1. Resumption of publication by the New York Herald Tribune, the only one of the city's major newspapers not involved in the engravers' dispute. The Herald Tribune, which stopped publication a week ago in sympathy with the other papers, put out address Sunday and Monday editions of eight pages each.

2. Spirited activity among representatives of the two sides as mediators twice scheduled joint negotiations which did not materialize. In both cases it developed that officials of various unions involved were meeting secretly and unexpectedly with Magglo and other mediators.

The agency said the junks were laden with cargo. It made no mention of crewmen captured.

Second Barn Fire Loss Is $20,000; Farmers on Guard

Van Benschoten Declares Loss of Chickens, Pony, Cow and Equipment

The second barn fire within 24 hours in the Mt. Marion-Ruby area caused an estimated $20,000 loss to buildings, equipment and livestock Saturday afternoon and put farmers on their guard against a possible arsonist.

The fire, which broke out about 2:30 p. m. Saturday destroyed the barn of Archie Van Benschoten at Mount Marion and damaged a nearby wagon shed. A flock of 300 chickens, a pony and a cow perished in the flames, which also destroyed 500 bushels of corn just purchased by Van Benschoten, a new side-delivery hay rake and a corn picker.

Estimate Is Made
The estimate of $20,000 loss was made this morning by Van Benschoten, who stressed that it was a hastily-made estimate subject to revision on closer inspection.

Cause of the fire is not known, it was reported by Chief David Scheffel of the Mount Marion-Ruby fire department. Also unknown is the cause of a fire a mile away Friday night which destroyed a barn owned by Rose Stice at Ruby.

Chief Scheffel said that state police of the Kingston station have been asked to investigate the blazes. It was also reported that area farmers remained awake all last night on guard against possible arson attempts. Reports that some farmers patrolled their property with shot guns could not be confirmed.

Van Benschoten was away surveying at the time the fire broke out Saturday afternoon. The blaze was discovered by Mrs. Van Benschoten, Chief Scheffel reported, who had been in the house caring for some children. She attempted to save the pony and cow but was unable to do so because of the extreme heat and the fact that the animals were kicking.

The Mount Marion-Ruby fire department was summoned and protected the house with assistance from the Ulster Hose Company's tank truck and a pumper from High Woods.

Passengers, Crew Spend Tense Time After Mishap

Honolulu, Dec. 7 (AP)—Forty-two passengers and crew aboard a four-engine Stratoliner sweated out 350 miles of wobbly, tense flight to a tiny Pacific island yesterday after an engine explosion crippled their huge airliner.

The passengers hurriedly donned life jackets and sat calmly for almost three hours as the big Pan American plane limped to safety at Johnston Island, 700 miles southwest of Honolulu.

The Queen of the Pacific was at 10,000 feet 350 miles northwest of Johnston when a blast shattered one propeller and ripped through its engine.

Capt. Edward G. Kelley of San Jose, Calif., told the story in a radio-telephone interview from Johnston.

"We went from 10,000 to 5,500 feet very rapidly . . . completely out of control, but we managed to right the airplane."

Chief Delegate Is Absent at Day's Negotiations With Reds

Panmunjom, Dec. 7 (AP)—The chief U. S. delegate unexpectedly skipped today's negotiations with the Reds on a Korean peace conference and instead met with South Korean President Syngman Rhee at Seoul, possibly to discuss the dragging talks.

As Ambassador Arthur H. Dean talked with Rhee, aide Kenneth Young sat in for him at Panmunjom in a meeting he termed "a move forward."

Young said all points of the negotiations were discussed by both sides but gave no indication of any concrete progress.

Before Dean met with Rhee, he talked with Ellis O. Briggs, U. S. ambassador to Korea, on what Young termed urgent business. Young declined to reveal the subject of discussion.

Dean represents 16 United Nations and South Korea in the efforts to set up a peace conference. South Korea has been outspoken in its ideas on such a conference, occasionally differing with Dean's line of negotiation.

Other Events
1. Thirty more South Korean war prisoners refused to return home, making a total of 160 who have snubbed interviews with South Korean officers. Not one South Korean has returned in the five days of explanations.

2. The head of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission said the Communists and the UN command should decide what to do with POWs who refuse to go home if the peace conference does not meet soon.

The UNC insists that by the true terms they must be released as civilians on Jan. 23 even if the conference is not under way; the Reds insist that they be held until the conference discusses their fate.

The armistice terms give a conference until Jan. 22 to deal with the prisoners, but there is little indication it will get started by then.

Accuses Communists
3. Air Force Maj. Gen. J. K. Lacey, U. S. representative on the Joint Military Armistice Commission, accused the Communists of lying when they said all Allied war prisoners have been released or handed over to the custodian Indian command.

Eisenhower To Deliver Challenge

Russia Will Be Asked to Join in Working Out Plan to Disarm, Control Atom

Tucker's Town, Bermuda, Dec. 7 (AP)—President Eisenhower flies direct to New York tomorrow to deliver a dramatic new western challenge to Russia to join in working out a plan of disarmament and atomic control for a world periled by the hydrogen bomb threat.

With the backing of Britain's Prime Minister Churchill and the French leaders here for the Big Three conference, Eisenhower in a major address to the United Nations General Assembly is expected to suggest fresh approach to the knotty international atomic problem which has been caught in a vise of a Soviet-western deadlock for seven years.

The announced subject for the speech, to be made at 4 p. m. (EST) is "Perils that confront the world in this atomic age." Major radio and television networks and the United States made plans to carry the address.

Causes Sensation
The sudden announcement last night that Eisenhower would address the UN caused a sensation dominating the closing rounds of his meetings here with Churchill and French Premier Joseph Laniel.

The development overshadowed the shift of the talks today to Far Eastern problems, including France's war in Indochina and negotiations for a Korean peace conference, and continuing British-American efforts to press the French for early approval of the rearmament of West Germany.

The Big Three talks were due to close late this afternoon or tonight with a communique summing up their work.

Eisenhower will leave Tuesday, flying direct to New York's Idlewild Airport. The ailing Laniel, still confined to bed with a lung infection, also will fly home Tuesday if he is able.

Churchill, the conference host, will take off for London late Wednesday.

Drafting Completed
Eisenhower and Churchill, along with U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Eden and French Foreign Minister Bidault, at their sessions yesterday completed the drafting of a note to Russia reportedly agreeing to a Big Four foreign ministers meeting in Berlin, possibly in early January.

Red China Calls Upon UN To Throw Out U. S. Policy

Tokyo, Dec. 7 (AP)—Red China tonight called on the United Nations to repudiate what it termed a "criminal" American policy in Korea that it said has led to "the present critical situation."

In a caustic, free-swinging attack, Foreign Minister Chou En-Lai charged the United States with "attempts to wreck the Korean armistice agreement, to forcibly retain prisoners of war (and) to obstruct the peaceful settlement of the Korean question for the purpose of maintaining international tension."

Chou's charges came in a message to the UN general assembly in New York, which was broadcast by the Red Peiping radio.

He warned the UN General Assembly should evade its responsibilities . . . and condone the actions of the U. S. government, the seriousness of the Korean situation would be increased and the UN would become a tool of the United States in creating international tension."

Chou's hot message was no surprise. A major propaganda blast has been expected since the Communists flogged in their efforts to woo back some 22,600 anti-Red Korean and Chinese war prisoners who refused to go home.

Observers have speculated that delays in setting up a Korean peace conference have been a result of that failure.

Chou said the Korean situation is at a critical stage and charged that the opening of a peace conference has been "delayed by treacherous designs of the UN command." He said the United States is "deliberately" stalling negotiations at Panmunjom.

"There is no solution in sight," he said.

Chou again insisted that Russia be invited to the political conference as a "neutral," a proposal the allies have repeatedly rejected. They have approved Russian attendance as a "third party," but not as a neutral.

Wealthy Widow Decides She Can't Wed Dempsey; Says Backgrounds Are Wrong

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Mrs. Estelle Auguste, who last night cancelled plans to marry former heavyweight boxing champion Jack Dempsey, left today by plane for Florida.

"I wish you would tell Mr. Dempsey I have left," she said, as she boarded an Eastern Air Lines plane for West Palm Beach. "I understand he wanted to sleep until 10 o'clock. Well, it's better this way. It's easier to break an engagement than get a divorce."

The pretty, fabulously rich widow appeared in good spirits as she boarded the plane. She said she would spend the Christmas holidays at West Palm Beach.

Mrs. Auguste announced the breakup last night with the statement that "oil and water simply won't mix."

"We're just too different," she said, three days after she had announced she would marry the former boxer.

Dempsey had stalked out of Mrs. Auguste's apartment in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel a few minutes before she announced the engagement was broken.

At the Mayflower Hotel, where the former world heavyweight champion is staying, a telephone operator said in answer to calls: "Mr. Dempsey is extremely tired. He has left instructions not to be disturbed until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock."

Mrs. Auguste—who at 42 is 16 years younger than Dempsey—was interviewed at her hotel apartment last night, and again by telephone early today.

She said she was leaving for Florida by plane today (8:30 a. m., EST) and added: "I don't think there is any chance for a reconciliation—we're both so different."

Asked how she reached her decision that an oil-and-water situation existed, she said: "I always knew it, but I didn't think it would make such a vast difference until our engagement was announced."

"I found many of my friends would not accept him. . . I was told that if I married Jack Dempsey 'You can go with the sport-crowd. Don't bother us.'"

Mrs. Auguste said that all her life she has associated with society people—"and not cafe society."

She inherited her wealth from her second husband, H. Spencer Auguste, founder of the Commercial Investment Trust and executive of the May Co., a department store chain, who died about four years ago.

Dempsey, who had known her husband for years, proposed marriage to the widow about a year after Auguste's death. Mrs. Auguste previously had been married to Dr. S. Bulle, a Norwegian surgeon. They were divorced in 1941. She has no children.

The blonde widow said early today the breakup with Dempsey wasn't caused by "any one thing." She added that there were "a lot of things that got to be more and

Some spot flooding along highways and streets was apparent, although there were no reports of serious inundation received by state police sheriff's deputies.

Water Over Sidewalk

At 9:58 p. m. Sunday Officer William Norton of the Kingston police reported water over the sidewalk on East Union street under the railroad bridge. Reports were received at 10:20 p. m. for flooding of the railroad underpass on Broadway and at 10:45 p. m. for a hole near the Kingston City Transportation Company garage on East Chester street.

Rain turned the various Thruway construction areas in the county into seas of mud, but checks this morning with state engineers' offices in Kingston and near New Paltz indicated there would be no serious hampering of the work.

Late Bulletin

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—The White House said shortly before noon today that 17,629 telegrams and an uncounted volume of mail had come in as a result of the appeal by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) that the public ask President Eisenhower to halt U. S. aid to free world nations which trade with Red China.

Assistant White House Press Secretary Murray Snyder said he understood Western Union has a backlog of telegrams possibly totaling 1,700 or more.

Snyder told reporters the telegrams have come in so fast it has been impossible to break them down into those which favor McCarthy's China trade demand and those who support the President's stand.

Pan American Plans
Pre-Marking Delivery

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Pan American World Airways announced plans today to deliver mail the day before it is sent by using the jet stream—that river of high winds flowing from west to east high above the earth.

Pan American said it would carry out the plan, for stamp collectors and air mail enthusiasts, over its Tokyo-Honolulu route this month.

Each winter, when the jet stream flows fastest, Pan American flies its stratoclinpers non-stop the nearly 4,000-mile distance. E'en route they cross the International date line, so they land at Honolulu, as far as the calendar is concerned, the day before they leave Tokyo.

Pan American invited the public to send self-addressed air mail envelopes, plus 25 cents for Tokyo stamps, to reach its "Jet Stream Line Service," South San Francisco, before Dec. 20.

Attempt Is Beaten Off

Hanoi, Indochina, Dec. 7 (AP)—The French army command said today its forces beat off a Vietnamese attempt to destroy Gia Loc, a key French stronghold near the highway linking Hanoi with the seaport of Haiphong. The French claimed they inflicted "extremely heavy losses" on the Communist rebels. The French acknowledged, however, that French and Vietnamese troops manning the post and the armored column sent to their aid suffered "serious losses" in the five-hour battle yesterday. No figures were given.

No Bargain, That's All

Oklahoma City, Dec. 7 (AP)—Christmas shopping note! A small, gray-haired woman walked to a counter at the five-and-dime store and asked for a five-cent tie box. The clerk told her the cheapest one was a dime. She left, indignantly, declaring: "I bought the tie because it was a bargain but it won't be a bargain if I pay a dime for the box!"

Bellhop Credited
With Saving
Guests of Hotel

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—A quick thinking, elderly bellhop was credited yesterday with averting possible tragedy when brakes on a hotel elevator failed during a fire.

The bellhop, John Henry, 60, was taking about a dozen Hotel Sherman Square guests to the lobby from the top floor of the 12-story building.

He noticed the brake failure and quickly threw the control lever in reverse, while calming the passengers.

"It wasn't a sudden drop at the end," said Henry, a Negro, "but it was a lot faster than usual."

Five of the passengers were treated at a hospital for shock and released. About 300 guests were roused during the early morning blaze of undetermined origin. They descended to the lobby in makeshift garments. Firemen kept the fire from spreading from the fifth floor, where it started and damaged four rooms.

Jail Is Recommended
Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—House tax fraud investigators, winding up their final report, recommend more jail sentences and fewer fines to prevent income tax fraud and favoritism. In the last installment of the report, after two years of hearings, the House Ways and Means Subcommittee yesterday aimed most of its recommendations at individual taxpayers. Previous installments have criticized tax officials and cited irregularities. The subcommittee said taxpayers should be required to keep more accurate records, account more strictly for deducted business expenses and face tougher punishment if convicted of evasion.

FRENCH LET OPPORTUNITY PASS

A good many seasoned observers, looking at Europe in the years after World War II, concluded that France could have made itself the leader.

Britain, shorn of big portions of its overseas empire, stripped of capital reserves, its vaunted trade suffering anemia, had to fight the battle of austerity. Its domestic preoccupations precluded real leadership in Europe.

Conquered Germany, its factories battered and its soil under the tread of foreign soldiers, seemed a long way from its old eminence in the economic world. Its overseas markets had been gobbled up by the victorious nations.

In contrast, France was for the most part spared the worst devastations of war. Its productive farms could sustain an energetic bid for European power by French industry, which was fit for new endeavors. With that effort could have come political leadership of a high order.

But France did not seize its opportunity. True, it acquired the burden of the Indo-China war. Yet that was not enough to account for its failure. The evidence strongly suggests that the French simply did not try. Industrialists made no great advances. Farm output did not climb as it might have.

Meantime, Britain, after what seemed an interminable series of reversals, finally got a fresh grip economically. In the last year or more, its trade position has improved markedly.

The change in Germany has been even more remarkable. The plodding Germans, cut off by the Iron Curtain from the 18,000,000 people living in the Russian zone, burrowed out of their ruins and went back to work. West Germany's industrial recovery stands as one of the real feats of the post-war era.

As they rebuilt at home, the Germans reached out once more to re-establish lines of trade. By 1952 West Germany had climbed back to third place among major trading countries with an export surplus. Only the United States and Canada ranked higher.

For the first eight months of this year, Germany's trading surplus was greater than for all of 1952. The Germans clearly have regained stature in world commerce, and this in turn has furthered their recovery at home. They are again the economic power to be reckoned with on the Continent.

In France, this is something to lament. Looking back, the French remember how the Germans twice translated economic strength into military; they fear it may happen a third time. And so the French plead continuously for safeguards from America and Britain against this German might.

Admittedly the Germans were free to work without armament burdens. But it cannot be denied that the French let a chance go by to strike a more equal balance in Europe. Consequently, there cannot help but be an admixture of pity in the sympathy we feel toward their pleas for protection.

The final headquarters of the German air force in World War II, Sir Winston Churchill's current war reminiscences remind us, was a lunatic asylum near Munich. This is poetic justice indeed.

DECLINING AMERICANS

One of the most tragic retreats before the onslaught of modern man is the steady population decline of the American Prairie Chicken. Once numbered by millions, the thumping birds are reduced to minor flocks of a few hundred thousand living in a few far western states.

Apparently America is to suffer the fate of other nations whose wild life has slowly become extinct as Europeans settled the plains and valleys and built their cities, then began hunting for sport.

Sportsmen have almost destroyed America's prairie chickens. The American Geographical Society estimates only 400,000 of them remain alive. Another contributing cause toward their decline is the farmer's plow. Clearing the grasslands has removed

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE CASE OF JOHN PATON DAVIES, JR.

John Paton Davies, Jr., has, for many years, been a controversial figure in the State Department. He has for some time been hidden away in the American Embassy in Peru.

General Walter Bedell Smith got into the act by indicating that McCarthy knows all about Davies, concerning whom Smith testified in a closed hearing of a Senate committee. Smith, when he was head of the CIA, apparently employed Davies to recruit Communist employees for the CIA as double-agents, which may be sound procedure. The McCarthy Committee in its report on its investigation into the Institute of Pacific Relations, stated:

"John Paton Davies, Jr., testified falsely before the subcommittee in denying that he recommended the Central Intelligence Agency employ, utilize and rely upon certain individuals having Communist associations and connections. This matter was relevant to the inquiry and substantial in import."

The excuse given for Davies is that as he was employed by the CIA, whatever he knew or did was top secret and that therefore he could not tell the truth. This is ultra vires as he was under oath and therefore was forbidden, by law and morality, to tell an untruth. Whereas the Department of Justice obtained an indictment against Owen Lattimore for perjury, it rejected the recommendation of the McCarthy Committee, which reads:

"That the Department of Justice submit to a grand jury the question of whether perjury has been committed before the subcommittee by John P. Davies, Jr."

This has been ignored. In fact, John Paton Davies, Jr., has remained in government employ since this recommendation was made.

In Elizabeth Bentley's testimony, this colloquy concerning Davies appeared:

"Mr. Morris. Miss Bentley, did you ever have any direct relations with John P. Davies?"

"Miss Bentley. No."

"Mr. Morris. Did you ever have anything to do with any of his reports, official State Department reports?"

"Miss Bentley. Yes, through the Silvermaster group. I was told that he was quite sympathetic to our cause, and I remember one report of his that they gave to me which definitely showed that fact."

Dr. Karl Wittfogel testified about Davies as follows:

"Dr. Wittfogel. . . . I warned . . . against things you find rampant all over the White Book (on China issued by the State Department) and which I found at least in the mind of one high-ranking gentleman in the State Department with whom I once had an opportunity to discuss Chinese affairs, the idea that the Chinese Communists may be different from other Communists."

"Mr. Morris. Who is this high-ranking gentleman?"

"Dr. Wittfogel. John Davies."

"Dr. Wittfogel. John P. Davies. You find extreme positions taken in Lattimore's memorandum about the necessity of giving as much as we can and leaning over backwards. Otherwise we might—this is a formula which you find again and again—drive the Chinese Communists in the arms of the Russians. In my opinion this is one of the funniest remarks I have ever heard in my life. You don't have to drive them very hard. I think it is insulting the intelligence of this country to make that kind of remark."

The evidence in the McCarran Committee hearings is that John Paton Davies, Jr., was one of the architects of the American China Policy which has proved to be so disastrous. He was closely associated with the Institute of Pacific Relations, and particularly with Laughlin Currie, the Presidential administrative assistant, who is now working for Colombia and against whom the testimony has grown mountain high.

General Smith's explanation in closed session that Davies recruited Communists as double agents does not absolve Davies of such matters as appear in 71 references in the McCarran Committee hearings relating to the Institute of Pacific Relations. I wonder if anyone asked General Smith why he thought Davies would be the most suitable man to recruit Communists to be double agents. There must have been a reason.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

TREATMENT OF STRESS

When a person is under stress, or strain mentally, physically and emotionally, he is apt to find that he is careless and indifferent at times. One of the symptoms of stress now being noticed is a frequent desire to urinate and, sometimes, the urine comes away unnoticed by the individual. This is called "incontinence."

In The Journal of Urology (kidneys and bladder), Dr. L. R. Whorton describes his experience in the treatment of 26 women with stress incontinence, all of whom were studied medically, gynecologically (reproductive organs) and also urologically (kidneys and bladder) to learn the causes of incontinence and the most promising methods of treatment.

"Stress incontinence occurs in a variety of circumstances; in the young and old, in women who have borne children and those who have not, independently of any urinary disorder, in the fat and the thin, in old age, in nervous disorders, after operations, and when no other disease of any kind is present."

It would seem that in women the sphincter muscles (muscles that close the tube carrying urine out of the body) are not strong in many cases so that only slight increase in pressure of the bladder walls causes them to push out urine through the weak sphincter muscles. When bladder is full, of course, the extra pressure causes incontinence.

What about treatment for incontinence of urine?

Weight reduction has helped some cases but the most successful treatment, in 15 cases, was the exercises. "The exercises were very simple. The patient is told to tighten these sphincter muscles, just as if she were trying to prevent the escape of urine. At the same time she is to tighten or contract the sphincter muscles of the anus (lower opening of bowel) as if she were trying to prevent the escape of gas or waste from the bowel."

Improvement in urinary control is usually evident within a month after the exercises are begun. However, if there is prolapse of uterus or vagina, these disorders should be corrected by surgical means. Sometimes it is necessary to make little tucks in the opening to lessen its size.

However, when there is no other disorder, this simple tightening of the sphincter muscles helps many cases.

the bird's habitat. Unless something effective is done immediately, the birds will join with other birds such as the passenger pigeon, fading into the nation's past. There is time, however, to correct the situation.

The American whooping crane is making a slow comeback. Perhaps the same measures could be applied to revive the dying race of prairie chickens.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington (NEA) — One of the big problems Canadian government officials have had in handling Igor Gouzenko, the former Russian code clerk who exposed the Communist spy network, is that he seems to want to cash in on his experience and become another Louis F. Budenz.

As a former managing editor of the Daily Worker who broke with the Communists, Budenz is now considered a leading authority on anti-communism.

In the eight days since Gouzenko laid his 109 Soviet documents before the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, he has been kept under close protection to prevent any Communist attempts to have him murdered or to injure his family. He has lived in at least six different places. His own children are said not to know their real name.

Gouzenko is reported to have refused to testify before the U. S. Internal Security Committee because it would endanger the safety of his family and himself by breaking his "cover" as his disguise is known.

Regardless of this, Gouzenko's cover will be practically broken early next fall when his 300,000-word novel, "The Fall of a Titan," will be published by Norton in New York. Contract for the novel was signed last week. The author has been working on it for years.

Three times as long as an ordinary novel, "The Fall of a Titan" tells the story of the murder of one Mikhail Gorin, a "people's writer" whose career closely parallels that of Maxim Gorki. Stalin, Malenkov and other Communist leaders appear in the cast of characters.

Capital Visitor, Again

Any doubt that the war with Japan is completely over on the 12th anniversary of the Dec. 7, 1941, attack on Pearl Harbor was removed not long ago when Japanese Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura came to Washington on private business and called to pay his respects to former Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Admiral Nomura, it will be recalled, was Japanese Ambassador to Washington on Pearl Harbor day. With Saburo Kurusu, a special envoy from Tokyo, Admiral Nomura was actually discussing with Secretary Hull a Japanese note on peace in the Pacific at the very moment Japanese planes were dropping bombs on the U. S. fleet at the Hawaiian naval base.

Nomura was eager to call on old U. S. Navy friends and Secretary Hull during his recent visit in Washington and he was cordially received.

He Left Us More

Mrs. Olive Clapper, widow of famed Washington columnist and war correspondent Raymond Clapper, is now Washington director of "CARE." She tells this story about Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin:

Early in 1947, shortly after the senator came to Washington, Mrs. Clapper was having lunch with several senators' wives and other guests at the Capitol. Senator McCarthy came over to their table in the Senate restaurant, spoke to the ladies he knew and was introduced to Mrs. Clapper, whom he had never met.

The senator told her how much he sympathized with her over the loss of her husband in the Pacific and said, "You know, before Ray went on that assignment, he came to see me in Wisconsin."

At this point the senator reached in his pocket and pulled out an ordinary yellow pencil. "I carry this pencil next to my heart," he said. "Ray left it on my desk."

Mrs. Clapper says that her husband left Washington on Dec. 26, 1943, and was flown by the Navy directly to Honolulu. He was killed in a crash of two Navy planes in a combat mission over the Marshall Islands, Feb. 3, 1944.

Flying Question

Now that they have it, U. S. Air Force officials are trying to figure out what to do with the 1200-mile-an-hour experimental X-3 superspeed plane which has been nicknamed the Flying Stiletto. Aerodynamically, the plane is said to be capable of speeds of up to 2000 or 2500 miles an hour. Unfortunately, the engines that have been built for the X-3 haven't the power to fly at those speeds.

One question now is whether to rebuild it so that a more powerful engine can be fitted, or start fresh and build another plane of the same design that would go 3000 mph.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Dec. 6.—Further inquiry into the interesting activities of Sam Carp, of Bridgeport, Conn., the brother-in-law of the Soviet foreign minister, Vyacheslav Molotov, shows that he was a much more important fellow than his testimony indicated or the citizens of Bridgeport ever suspected. He was the subject of many communications on the highest "level," including one letter from the secretary of state, Cordell Hull, to President Roosevelt, in which Hull told the President that Carp's efforts "have been warmly seconded by the Soviet Embassy."

As we have already seen, this obscure speculator in city real estate in Bridgeport, was described to an official of the State Department by his hired American political agent, as a real plenipotentiary from Josef Stalin with an authority over the Russian ambassador, Troianovsky. The State Department certainly took that claim seriously for it is formally set forth in official records, and Dean Acheson practically ordered the House Committee on Un-American Activities to let Carp alone.

Furthermore, someone, possibly by Roosevelt's order, ditched a field agent's report holding that Amtorg, the Russian trading corporation, owed the treasury $2,000,000 in taxes. Carp had superseded David A. Rosoff, the director of Amtorg. It does not appear that any real case was made as to this claim, one way or the other. It seems to have been simply torn up and forgotten without any decision on the law and the facts. The internal revenue in Carp's own personal district was a patronage preserve of Senator Brien McMahon, a New Dealer, who was immune from questioning.

Later, when Harry Truman sent Chester Bowles, another member of the same political machine, to India as ambassador, Bowles took along Carp's old friend, Leigh Dannenberg, also of Bridgeport, to publish an American paper as a high example of American journalism and a model for the natives. Dannenberg was and continues to be the publisher of a weekly called the Bridgeport Herald, a propaganda and scandal sheet. This paper is held by some Americans within its circulation range to be no convincing demonstration of Dannenberg's qualifications to represent the American fourth estate.

Carp and Dannenberg are members of a circle of cronies in Bridgeport. A man who formerly was in the Central Intelligence Agency and still may be for that matter because the CIA never tells, is known to have observed the associations and activities of Mr. Carp in view of the change in the temperature of relations with Russia. The CIA is, in effect, the State Department's FBI, dealing in foreign affairs.

Mrs. Carp insisted some years ago that he had absolutely washed up his business with the Soviet government and denied that he had ever invested any of his money or the Soviet's money in Dannenberg's paper. There was no insinuation that he had. The committee just thought of asking. There was some suspicion that the question had been prompted by some friend of Clare Booth Luce, then a Republican member of Congress from that district and the subject of some fairly rugged publicity in the Herald.

Carp had his own trading corporation doing business for Russia under his own name. He did not register as an agent for a foreign power, insisting that he had no reason to do so because he was not an "agent" at all. On the other hand he admitted that he was commissioned to spend either $100,000,000 or $200,000,000.

Republican Party Split Seems to Be Brewing and Suicide Might Be Result

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 7.—Is the Eisenhower Administration committing political suicide? Judging by the doleful comments made privately to this correspondent in the last few days by Republican members of Congress of both wings of the party, the McCarthy-Eisenhower-Dulles feud is about the most serious cleavage that has happened since the Republican Party split of 1910 which caused the loss of the presidential election of 1912 to the Democrats.

One Republican senator who has regularly supported the administration on everything and will continue to do so put it this way:

"Why do they want to split the Republicans in my state? My people are taking this as an emotional issue and that doesn't do our party any good."

Irrespective of who is responsible for the start of the row, the fact is that the administration bungled it badly from the very beginning. When anything so important as a fight inside the Republican Party about to be precipitated, it would seem that the matter would be of such importance as to command consideration by the President along with members of his cabinet. Nobody in the cabinet outside the secretary of state was consulted before the statement was issued by Mr. Dulles, who was anxious to please the British by showing that the administration was not as critical of the British trade with the Communists during the Korean war as is Senator McCarthy. Yet the subject had in it most far-reaching implications on the domestic side.

It will not do any good to count telegrams for or against Senator McCarthy, or letters either. No matter what the proportion, even if it is only a minority of 25 per cent, that's enough when carried through the electorate to lose both Houses of Congress to the Democrats by the simple maneuver of Republicans staying away from the polls. This happened recently in both the Wisconsin and New Jersey special elections for Congress. For even though the issues were different in these two contests the fact that a majority of the Republicans who voted for congressmen in 1952 stayed away in 1953 was enough to give the Democrats their victory.

The issue which Senator McCarthy has made is so clear-cut that it is incredible that someone in the administration should not have been able to advise the President and Secretary Dulles how to write a statement different from the one they put out which virtually apologized for the failure of the allies to honor their commitments when they sent strategic materials to Soviet Russia while American boys were dying in Korea.

On that issue alone no administration can win if it persists in making a stand in defense of a lied policy. Last Saturday, for example, at one of the largest movie houses in New York city, the audience didn't applaud either Mr. Dulles or President Eisenhower when they appeared in a newsreel. But when Senator McCarthy came on immediately afterward there was a loud roar of approval even before he started to speak and, according to a friend who was present and reported it to this writer, the applause was deafening when the senator finished speaking.

This merely confirms that emotional issues are highly dangerous in politics. One of the oldest rules in politics is "never create an unnecessary controversy inside your own party."

With a majority of only one in the Senate why should a Republican President, it is asked, antagonize any minority in his party? The Truman-Stevenson press in Washington has been needing Mr. Eisenhower to split his party on the McCarthy issue. The President presumably believes the problem involves on his part merely a like or dislike for one senator. He seems to have fallen for the specious argument that he must assert "leadership" over both parties and get a catch-all majority. It's a fallacious theory because the opposition party will not give solid support to a Republican President's program just before an election.

What has happened is that the President has gained the applause Stevenson-Truman Democrats throughout the country who wouldn't vote Republican anyhow next time and he has lost enough of the Republican vote to assure a Democratic victory in both 1954 and 1956 unless by some miracle he can learn the fundamentals of party leadership between now and the next elections. For in the coming Congress the Democrats will vote solidly against him anyhow on most issues and if a handful of disaffected Republicans don't vote at all the Eisenhower legislative program is as good as dead now.

The late William Howard Taft made a blunder on the tariff in mid-term that cost his party both Houses of Congress in 1910 and it begins to look as if history is repeating itself on an issue of even graver importance—American indifference to trade between the allies and the Communists at a time when 140,000 American casualties were being incurred in Korea. Truman permitted it, but Eisenhower is apologizing for and defending the policy.

Rumor Factory Works

Kingston, N. C. (AP)—When employees of Serv-Air Aviation Corp. at Stallings Field hear a company rumor they take it to the rumor factory. The factory is housed in a small structure resembling an outhouse. Inside is a large bulletin board with a 2-column sheet. In one column is written rumor and the other fact. If the rumor is true, it is written in the fact column. If not, it is written in the rumor column and returns later to get the facts supplied by the personnel director.

000, (he did not seem to know which amount), and that he had brought back from Moscow, on one of his many journeys a great deal of American money in $1,000 bills. If he was mistaken in his belief that he was not an "agent," the same tender solicitude that appeared in Acheson's intervention protected him from the slightest embarrassment.

On the question whether he was an "agent" or not, Hull to Roosevelt definitely said, "In September, 1936, the Carp Export and Import Corporation, organized as purchasing agents for the government (of Soviet Russia) began negotiations to purchase one or more battleships in this country." The letter said the Soviet wanted to get the plans, which by that time already had been drawn, "even though a 62,000-ton battleship armed with 18-inch guns could not be constructed in this country."

Later, Captain Joyce, U.S.N., went to Moscow whether Carp and his staff had presented him and explained drawings of a proposed battleship to the commissar for heavy industry and the vice-commissar for naval affairs. A State Department document reports that these Soviet officials turned down the plan after Captain Joyce had given detailed explanations. The document said Joyce understood that the Soviet government now wanted to buy a conventional battleship with heavy armor and 16-inch guns just to get the guns. The Russians had been unable to produce such guns or the turrets or fire-control apparatus. Joyce and Carp left Moscow together for the United States "where further discussions will take place."

Some junior American naval officers who are not named, did all they could to jam Carp's venture. Scott Ferris, a Democratic lame duck congressman hired by Carp with Russian money to introduce him around, especially in state and navy, complained about this to Joseph C. Green, chief of the Office of Arms and Munitions Control. Green wrote that Ferris said certain officers had said: "We shall still be here after Roosevelt and Hull, Swanson (secretary of the navy) and Admiral Leahy have gone. They are temporary and we are permanent. In such matters, our wishes are important, not theirs."

Average Man Is Myth

Clinton, N. Y. (AP)—Hamilton College's "average freshman" doesn't exist except in the figures compiled by Robin Holloway, a mathematics major. The average is 5 feet 10 inches, weighs 152½, has brown hair and blue eyes, is the son of a college-trained business executive and worked as a bell hop at a summer resort hotel. He went to public high school, won a varsity sports letter, belonged to three clubs and worked for the school paper.

So, What Is Literacy?

By FRANK TRIPP

The cannibals won't eat you if you'll teach them to read, says a man who has lived through it. Good! Now we only need know what to do about the educated headhunters whose super knowledge threatens civilization.

Dr. Frank Laubach of World Literacy Inc. has set up literacy programs in 85 countries, created courses in 239 languages, and has been the means of teaching some 60 million illiterates to read and write, touching every phase of humanity.

That a cannibal would rather read than eat should shame civilized millions who live mostly for their stomachs. Because the cannibals have their shortages too, their off seasons when white meat is scarce.

Imagine even a starving Noah Webster passing up a porterhouse for a dictionary.

SUMMING UP his problems, Dr. Laubach says that nothing simple enough and good enough is being written for the millions who are craving knowledge.

"Reading for them must be easy, interesting and helpful," he says. "Almost nobody knows how to write that way. All the writers write for the intellectuals."

Well now, doctor, we have the same problem right here in America. Millions of our own so-called literates are finding reading they can understand no higher up than the pulp stands and the funnies.

The Bible has been put into story forms fathomable by them, but little else beyond the crudest fiction. Primer approach to the vital news of the day, which rules peoples' lives, still is wanting.

WHAT DR. LAUBACH is doing for the illiterates of Asia and Africa could well be applied to the half-literates who hold the balance of power, through the ballot, right here on our own home grounds. Among well meaning people whose thinking is confused through misconception of what they read, and those who read scarcely at all because they do not understand what is written.

The cunning know how to reach them. They are meat for the demagogues, the Communists, the exploiters of the uninformed. They fall prey to the subtle propaganda of educated subversives and come to think that modern education leans that way; that it's smart to be skeptical.

HOW TO SOLVE this home problem of borderline literacy is almost as complex as Dr. Laubach's work. He teaches cannibals not to eat people; we need to teach gullibles not to eat poison; and by the same route, through understandable literature that does not exist, "easy, interesting, helpful."

Here is a challenge to a courageous publisher who will print his folios in monosyllables; and to writers and reporters with the ingenuity of Mother Goose.

In some ways Dr. Laubach has the simpler task. His illiterates are eager, will listen; want to learn so they may have the comforts and privileges already enjoyed by those whom we should teach.

His pupils don't have automobiles, elect presidents and earn twice as much as he; whilst casting dies—and ballots—that would destroy it all.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Marries Partner To Solve Problem

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

"I am in a very difficult position," writes my old friend Charlie Michaels, whose manifold bridge activities include packed bridge courses at Queens College, the running of a bridge club, and a light-hearted approach to players and their problems. "A young man and a young lady who play at my club came to me recently with the accompanying hand for advice and consolation.

"The man opened the deuce of hearts, and the girl, who held the East cards, won with the ace of hearts. She shifted to the king of clubs, and West signaled enthusiastically with the eight. The girl next cashed the queen of clubs, and her partner completed his signal by playing the three of clubs.

"As the young man pointed out, the contract could now be beaten if the girl led another club. He would ruff with the ten of spades, thus overruffing the dummy.

"I shook my head sympathetically as he made this correct observation. As you know, I've put out a little humorous rate card, showing various prices for listening to all kinds of bridge discussions, and a sympathetic shake of the head entitles me to an extra fee. So I shook my head and even threw in a little grunt by way of an extra.

"Much to his sorrow, however, the young lady failed to lead an-

BIRTHDAY PARTY

December birthdays often get less attention than they deserve, because of the pressure of Christmas celebrations. But the birthday of the Christmas Seal is celebrated by people from Maine to California in the most appropriate possible way—by buying and using Christmas Seals to fight tuberculosis.

The American Christmas Seal was born 46 years ago on December 7, 1907, when Miss Emily Bissell, a welfare worker in Wilmington, Del., offered for sale the first Christmas Seals to raise money to help fight tuberculosis. Since that day the sale of Christmas Seals to raise funds for the tuberculosis control activities of the 3,000 voluntary tuberculosis associations has become an annual event.

When Miss Bissell sold her first Christmas Seal, tuberculosis was in first place as a cause of death in this country. Now, on the 46th birthday of the Christmas Seal, TB stands sixth. With bed rest, modern drugs, and surgery, cases are being cured every day that once would have been thought hopeless. Thousands who once would have had to spend their lives as dependent invalids are now being restored to full usefulness.

There has been great progress, but even greater progress in TB control must still be made. TB today kills more people than all other infectious diseases combined, one every 17 minutes. An estimated 400,000 Americans have active TB. Within the year, approximately 115,000 persons will be attacked by the disease. TB costs us more than $350,000,000 a year.

The Christmas Seal finances the activities of the tuberculosis associations in the all-out fight of official and voluntary agencies to wipe out TB through education, case finding, rehabilitation of patients and medical research. Right now, thousands of volunteers in communities throughout the United States are working to make the 1953 Christmas Seal sale a success. Millions of people are joining in the traditional holiday custom of sticking Christmas Seals on their greeting cards and gift packages.

It's a birthday celebration worthy of the invaluable contribution of the Christmas Seal to a healthier America today and in the future.

other club. She tried to cash the ace of diamonds first. South ruffed, and then ruffed two clubs safely in the dummy to bring home his contract.

"I looked at the young lady sternly, but she didn't seem a bit abashed. Instead she said 'This hand convinced us that my bridge needed careful attention, so we got married last week. And then I remembered that I hadn't seen them for a week or two.

"So now I have a real problem. My little rate card states that I will not listen to arguments between husband and wife at any price. But these two young people trapped me into breaking my rule. What should I do?"

The moral of this story is that the defender's first duty is to defeat the contract. It's not every

Will Set Up Lab

Utica, Dec. 7 (AP)—The New York State Masonic Lodge plans to set up a laboratory at the Masonic Home and Hospital here to direct research in diseases of the aged. Ward B. Arbury of Buffalo, grand master of the state lodge, told newsmen Saturday night the lodge would use money collected in its 1954 Masonic brotherhood drive to establish the geriatrics laboratory. He said the laboratory would employ its own scientists and also encourage geriatrics research at various colleges and universities in the state.

One pair of twins is produced in about 88 births, triplets happen once in about 7600 births, and quadruplets once in 670,000.

Honor Society Induction

Honor Society has appointed committees to make plans for their induction assembly Thursday, Dec. 10. Although most of the plans are secret until that date, it is known that approximately 12 or 13 boys and girls will be chosen from the Senior class to become members of Honor Society. Their election is on the basis of character, school service, and scholastic average.

Prisma Assembly

During the last Prisma meeting Wednesday, members were entertained by the Herrick Marionette Show. Beginning the show one of the marionettes played a tiny accordion. It is interesting to note that the Herricks make all their equipment, which include marionettes, stage and stage properties.

A variety of different acts followed, including Julius LaRosa singing "Anywhere I Wander," and his hit song "Eh Cumpari," and a circus act called Checkers and His Girl Friend Tiddly Winks. The grand finale was a trapeze ballerina. This last, the Herricks explained, is the most difficult of their marionettes to manipulate.

Radio Clubs

This year Mrs. McNelis has two radio clubs, both of which have elected their officers for the year. The president of second period class is Max Wunderlich; James Nolan, vice-president; Margaret Mericle, secretary, and Charles Coutant, treasurer.

The eighth period officers are Ronald Marks, president; Linda Mottier, vice-president; Grace Bruno, secretary, and Richard Dempsey, treasurer.

Band Assembly

On Dec. 11 the band, under the direction of Marlin Morette, will present a concert for assembly. Among the selections will be "The Whistling Bobby," a novelty piccolo solo, Autumn Silhouette, and an arrangement consisting of a march, Samba and Evening Song. To help the student body get into the spirit of Christmas, the band also will play a special arrangement of Adele Fideles.

So-Y's vs. Faculty

The YWCA So-Y's have arranged a basketball game between the Faculty and the So-Y's. The purpose of this game is to raise money for the underprivileged children for Christmas. The game will be played Dec. 9 in the Kate Walton Field House at 8 p. m. There will be dancing following the game until 10:30 with music provided by Jack Bechtold and Phil Bunting.

The players for the So-Ys are Mary Elizabeth Hastie, Audrey Cherny, Dorothea Van Kleeck, Alice Mary Ambrose, Nancy Silvestri and Nancy Herzog. Subs include Drusella Freer and Rosalie Krienes.

Girls Basketball

Girls intramural basketball is now underway at Kingston High School. The games are played Mondays after school. Senior captains are Claudia Bouchard, Barbara Chmura and Joan Erena. Junior captains include Ada Cates, Mary Kelsch, Barbara Simmons, Faith Gersback, Rae Gadd, and Sue Milliken.

Sophomore captains are Barbara Davenport, Myrna Donaldson, Doreen Moore, Joyce LaGuardia, Audrey Cherney, Jean Kelder, and Claire McMahon. Freshmen captains include Lynne Wright, Judith Parker, Patricia Van Deusen, Patricia Melville, Linda Marz and Lorraine Pasante.

During the past month four games have been played, with the teams captained by Barbara Chmura, Ada Cates, Barbara Davenport and Lynne Wright.

This year Dame Rumor is entering the contest sponsored by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. This association recognizes schools, who through feature articles and editorials, help publicize the problems of controlling tuberculosis. Frieda Cohen, editor-in-chief of Dame Rumor and Paula Weiner, features editor, are writing articles which will be submitted for judging.

Library Council

The Library Council, whose advisor is Miss Malone, held its first meeting Nov. 24, with 35 members attending. The officers elected for this year are Rose Nardi, president; Gertrude Rietz, vice-president and Agnes Geary, secretary-treasurer.

Skunks Discouraged

New Haven, Conn. (AP)—The Connecticut agricultural experiment station says skunks will rid your lawn of Japanese beetles—but they'll rid you of your lawn at the same time by tearing it up to get at the beetle grubs. A better system, the agricultural experts say, is to use the insecticide chlordane. That kills the grubs and discourages the skunks by leaving them no grubs to eat.

Retirement Postponed

Dallas (AP)—Charlie Wise opened his barber shop 28 years ago. Then he studied law and hung out his shingle. He also started a loan business. That led to his becoming legal adviser and director of the Greenville Avenue Bank. The other day Charlie decided to slow down. He announced that he was retiring from barbering. His friends made quite an occasion of it. But the barber he hired failed to show up. Charlie plans to try retiring again real soon.

Registrar Wiltwyck Chapter
291 Washington Avenue
Kingston, New York

December 4, 1953

Editor, The Freeman

It has been brought to the attention of Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, that in a recent interview given in this city, the speaker stated that to the best of his knowledge, no organization in Kingston had as yet honored Robert Dietz, Ulster county's Congressional Medal of Honor winner.

May I please state for the record, that on December 7, 1950, during my second year in office as regent of Wiltwyck Chapter, I personally suggested that our organization place the name of "Robert Dietz, Congressional Medal of Honor," upon the Honor Roll in the DAR Memorial Bell Tower at Valley Forge.

Wiltwyck Chapter carried out this suggestion, so emblazoned forever in this beautiful structure, is the name of Ulster county's great hero, with those of other participants in the wars in which our country has engaged. It is our hope that all who read this may some day see this magnificent memorial.

Wiltwyck Chapter is not seeking credit. We consider it our duty and privilege to recognize patriotism and valor, thus carrying out the aims of our national society.

Sincerely yours,

Area Locker Plant Owner Seeks Patent

For eight years since he opened his food locker plant at Stone Ridge, Paul Sturges had been thinking of the tremendous loss of heat which came as a by-product from cooling the big food locker rooms.

While motors ran to dissipate the heat which was removed from the locker rooms, fuel oil was being burned to heat the supply of domestic hot water necessary in the business.

If this heat trapped in the process of cooling the locker rooms could be harnessed to the hot water system not only would ample hot water for all domestic use be available but in the process of removing the heat from the refrigerant, motors used in cooling the refrigerant would become idle and a large amount of electric energy would be saved.

Sturges, who had a course in mathematics at Harvard, began to

Mutual recovery of heat and cooling by means of a "intermediate heat exchanger" he figured would do the trick.

Sturges went to work on his plan and last March installed a counter-flow heat exchanger, which he calls the "Thrift Exchanger," in the compressor room of the Sturges Food Lockers, Inc., at Stone Ridge. The system worked so well he has filed for a patent on the idea through a Poughkeepsie patent attorney and he has already had offers for installation of the system on a commercial basis.

Stripped of its technical terms the "Thrift Exchanger" simply uses the heat which is picked up in the locker rooms in the process of cooling the lockers and in passing through a coil surrounded by water in a large tank, the heat is trapped from the refrigerant and transferred to the domestic hot water system. The benefit is two fold. The refrigerant from the compressor is cooled, eliminating practically all of the need for use of the refrigerant cooling machine which used two motors to operate it, and at the same time the heat is transferred to the domestic hot water system and there is little need for burning fuel oil for domestic hot water.

Cuts Use of Fuel Oil

This process of trapping the heat from the Freon refrigerant and automatically transferring it to the domestic hot water system and at the same time cooling the refrigerant, has resulted in a large decrease in electric energy as well as fuel oil.

A visit to the Sturges locker plant at Stone Ridge recently disclosed the idea working successfully.

Work on the system was completed last March and has been working since that time. Installation of the automatic equipment, the heat exchanger and other necessary parts was done by Howard's Refrigerating Service under the supervision of Paul Sturges.

Beside the automatic equipment and certain aqua-stats which control the flow of refrigerant and water, the heart of the plant is a 100 foot long copper coil which is welded inside a large water tank.

The coil was made in New Haven and other equipment used was specially designed by Sturges.

This 100 foot coil through which the hot refrigerant flows from the compressor, is surrounded by water in the large tank. This pre-heated water then flows to the domestic hot water storage tank.

A 7½ horsepower motor is used to operate the compressor which is used to cool the locker room. The heat from this one unit is the only one so far harnessed and is in use and Sturges pointed out that this one unit provides all the hot water needed at a saving of about 90 per cent in fuel oil.

The same system could be applied to the "quick freeze" meat box cooling system to give additional hot water or to heat hot water radiators for domestic heat. Sturges pointed out that the system might also prove economical in pre-heating the water in the return lines from hot water radiators to heating boiler and thus save a large amount of fuel.

Heat removed by air conditioning systems could also be trapped and diverted to domestic hot water systems or used to pre-heat return lines in heating systems, thus making the system do double duty, both cooling and heating.

Savings on Both

"Before installing the Thrift Exchanger," Sturges said, "we paid to cool and we paid to heat and now through the mutual exchange of heat and cold we are saving on both electricity and fuel oil."

With the system in use since last March, Sturges estimates the savings in fuel oil during the summer months has been considerable. Less than 700 gallons of fuel oil was used from April 1 to November 30, 1953. He estimates his saving in fuel oil and electricity will amount to several hundred dollars a year.

Through the mutual exchange of heat from the refrigerant to the hot water system, fuel oil to heat the water is saved and electricity formerly used to operate motors to cool the refrigerant and to blow the exhaust heat from the building is also saved. The York water cooling system which cools the refrigerant before re-circulating it back to the cooler room, seldom operates now and the smaller motor which operates the fan to blow the hot air from a vent in the compressor room practically never runs.

"There is a saving not only in energy but in wear and tear on machinery too," said Sturges.

To demonstrate the amount of water which is heated from the

"by-product" heat which formerly cost money to get rid of, Sturges turned on the hot water tap and there flowed large quantities of steaming hot water from the tap.

'Exchanger' Is Answer

"From what we used to pay to get rid of, we now recover sufficient heat to give us all the hot water we need, and we use a lot of it," said Sturges. "The Thrift Exchanger" has been the answer."

Sturges has filed for a patent and already has had inquiries on installation of the system for recovery of heat from air conditioning systems as well as refrigeration and cooler plants such as used in hotels, restaurants, bars and other places.

Stripped of Authority

Bern, Switzerland, Dec. 7 (AP)—

An adverse vote in a nationwide referendum has stripped the government of its constitutional authority to extend the federal income tax beyond 1954. The tax provides about one-third of the government's required income. The Swiss all-male electorate voted 487,364-353,962 yesterday against a proposal to continue the emergency tax legislation 12 years beyond its expiration next year. The income tax program raises about 230 million francs ($3 million dollars) annually, mostly for defense. Customs duties and sales taxes provide the other two-thirds of the federal income.

Teams Boost Morale

Fort Dix, N. J. (AP)—Trainees in a special "carrier company" have 4-man buddy teams, who went through basic training together. They eat, work and soldier together and even spend off-duty time with each other. They'll be sent overseas together. It's a morale booster, the army says.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

I wonder how many folks remember open house at Kingston High School, on Friday evening, May 11, 1917. It seems, the Maroon Staff made up of seniors conceived the idea of throwing the school open for public inspection, and with the co-operation of the faculty and student body had arranged for an orchestra concert, Red Cross work done at school and various other school projects. The school orchestra at the time consisted of 15 pieces. Those mentioned as doing solo work were Miss Alberta Silkworth, Miss Esther Rodie and Miss Ruth Shafer. One of the items said: "The sewing demonstration class will be busy working on Red Cross work which occupies all or nearly all of the actual class periods every day of late. It may be of interest to know that the material which the girls make these articles for Red Cross use are bought from funds given by the Junior Audubon Society of the school, and are not therefore drawn from the supplies of the Red Cross Society funds." Those were the years we were all knitting for the Red Cross, remember?

Another item from this 1917 Freeman interested me: "There will be a demonstration class in printing at the KHS open house. This department turns out good clean printing. This group of students are capable of doing all the printing for the school organizations except the very large job on the Maroon which the job printing department of the Freeman is now working on. In addition to the work for the student body, Mr. Service's students turn out much of the printing required by the Board of Education." As far as I remember in the early 1920's when I was a student at KHS we did not have such a class in printing. What happened to it?

The Home Economics class, it seems were to take care of the visitors at KHS with homemade strawberry short-cake, coffee and candy. There was also mention of Miss Doux's design classes which were turning out attractive posters. Room 33 on the upper floor was to have a demonstration of making chocolate pie, with samples for those who wished to watch and remain for the tasting of the pies. It seems that the strawberry shortcake was to be sold for 10 cents a portion, coffee, five cents and candy, at various prices, part of the proceeds were to go to the Red Cross fund. Also, there was dancing in the gym, for which a charge of 25 cents a couple was charged, with dancing from 8:30 to 11. Most of all, it seems the public was cordially invited to see the new high school, under the guidance of young men of the upper classes who wore the KHS Maroon and White ribbons on their coats and would take them around the entire building. No one was obligated to buy refreshments or attend the dance, if they did not care to do so.

W. H. Rider's piano store at 304 Wall street had a large advertisement in the above Freeman advertising, "A New Victor record of The Star Spangled Banner by John McCormack." E. Winter's Sons on John street had an identical advertisement on another page. Another advertisement said: "Members Co. M report at Armory, Friday, May 11 at 6 a. m."

During the gold rush of the 1890s, a ten-pound beeksteak sold for $48 a pound in Circle, Alaska.

CONSTIPATED?

This note from John J. McKeever of Dalton, Mass., will interest you!

"I'd often get constipated when my everyday schedule was upset—such as by a long car ride.

"But I never did get the gentle, speedy relief I wanted until the day Sal Hepatica was recommended to me. Next time I woke up with that logy feeling and knew my day might be ruined by constipation, I took Sal Hepatica before breakfast. Within about an hour, I was back on my feet! Sal Hepatica really does the trick!"

Yes, take sparkling Sal Hepatica before breakfast and feel fine again... usually within an hour. Or, take it in the evening one half hour before supper and feel fine again by bedtime! Sweetens sour stomach, too! So keep Sal Hepatica handy in your medicine chest.

1953-1978

Anybody who bought the common stocks of Amerada Petroleum, Chrysler, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, General Motors, International Business Machines, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Union Carbide and Carbon—to name only eight ranking American corporations—in 1928 and still owns them in 1953, has fabulous profits.

Amerada has been the most romantic. In 25 years it has appreciated more than 4,000 per cent. It went from $20 a share to the equivalent (counting the stock split-ups) of $925 a share. There are many Amerada stockholders who bought 25 shares for $500 who today, thanks to the stock increases, have 100 shares worth around $18,000.

There is romance surrounding all of these eight corporations. The first Chrysler car was facetiously called "The Glorified Maxwell." The Maxwell corporation was on its last legs when that industrial genius Walter P. Chrysler became the chairman of the Reorganization Committee of the Maxwell Motor Corporation. Anyone who put $1,000 into the stock of the new company and held on has unbelievable gains today.

General Motors, Eastman Kodak and the others have been gold mines. Five thousand dollars invested in International Business Machines when the company was organized today would be a million dollar investment.

Now, reading these lines will be hundreds of investors, real and potential, young enough to look ahead to 1978—25 years hence—and ask: "Are there enterprises on the horizon today that promise the growth that has been enjoyed by these eight leading corporations?"

And the answer is, "Yes!" Television is in its infancy. So is atomic energy. So are vast spaces in the United States and Canada where large and well-managed companies are spending millions of dollars yearly to uncover hidden wealth.

The Williston Basin is such a space. Half a dozen major oil companies are spending $100,000,000 a year right now to see what oil and natural gas deposits are locked up in the millions of acres comprising that Basin.

Where is the Williston Basin and how big is it? It covers about 60,000,000 acres in Canada, Eastern Montana and the western Dakotas. Standard Oil of California discovered the first interesting body of oil a little over two years ago. Shortly after that, Amerada Petroleum brought in production in North Dakota.

I first talked with the Amerada president 20 years ago. It was a promising equity at that time. The able geophysicists employed by the company were uncovering wealth constantly. There was economic romance ahead. But surely, no one would have dreamed that Amerada would appreciate 4,000 per cent in 25 years.

Well, today, the conversation about the Williston Basin has the same guarded optimism that characterized the Amerada talk of two decades ago.

I have an idea that the leading oil companies (those that can afford to spend millions of dollars in speculative development work) operating in the Williston Basin will turn in records from 1953-1978 as impressive as the 1928-1953 records of the eight corporations previously mentioned.

It is my prediction that by 1958 the name 'Williston Basin' will be well-known to American investors. By 1955 the big pipeline serving that territory and the North Dakota refinery will be in full operation. This will speed up the development of the Basin.

I have been all over the Basin in recent years in my travels and I have a hunch that in 10 or 20 years it may be another East Texas oil and gas field. It carries a lot of romance to investors who want good income and a potential of great growth.

Q—"Many queries center about the same matter: Would you invest savings now or wait for lower prices?"

A—High grade 2 1/2 per cent bonds are selling at 91. Good grade preferred stocks can be bought to yield 5 per cent. Growth common stocks sell to yield 5 per cent and 6 per cent. If income from savings is economically necessary, go ahead and invest savings now.

Harry C. France will answer one letter each week through this column. If you have any investment questions, write in care of this newspaper.

Efrem Kurtz Conducts Buffalo Philharmonic Before Capacity Crowd

The Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra, conducted by Efrem Kurtz, presented a thoroughly enjoyable and diversified program which held appeal for all music lovers, at the Kingston High School auditorium Saturday night for the Community Concert Association.

In a program change, the Symphony No. 88 in G Major, Haydn, was presented first, its passages marked by a dignified and appropriate interpretation.

Theodore Lettvin was the piano soloist in the second offering, Concerto No. 2 in C Minor for Piano and Orchestra by Rachmaninoff. His playing was technically sound, with lightning speed and forcefulness. His sensitive rendition called forth "Bravos" and thunderous applause from the audience, and a desire to hear this young virtuoso in an entire evening of concert selections.

After intermission, Mr. Kurtz led the orchestra in The Fire Bird Suite by Igor Stravinsky, composed in what Olin Downes calls the composer's "age of innocence." To the unusual tonal patterns and melodic passages, Mr. Kurtz brought a pleasing interpretation.

The final selection was the Overture to La Forza Del Destino, by Verdi, one of the more popular opera overtures. The familiar passages received a stirring performance by the orchestra.

Mr. Kurtz complied to the ovation following this selection, and conducted three encores, Spielerei, by Styx; March from the Love of Three Oranges by Prokofiev; and Perpetual Motion, by Strauss. His choice was a happy one, for these selections were light, appealing and concluded the program in good form.

Continuing with the Buffalo Philharmonic for several more concerts, Mr. Kurtz is looking forward to an even busier season than last. His plans include Europe and a concert tour in the near future, as well as several other guest appearances in this country. His opinion that this concert program was "not for children," was a point well taken. He especially mentioned the Stravinsky selection, agreeing that Kingston audiences should be familiar with the composer through his association with a conductor, also well-known, from Kingston, Robert Craft.

Wiltwyck Chapter Places Robert Dietz Name on Honor Roll

"Christmas is significant for peace and the love of God for men," said the Rev. Dr. Ralph M. Houston, guest speaker at the December meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution. "That conviction makes peace possible," continued the speaker. Explaining many Christmas customs, Dr. Houston gave the pagan origin of several, changed in use through the years. In concluding, he said that the love of God for man and the spirit of peace which means Christmas can move mountains.

John McCullough, soloist, sang Luther's Cradle Hymn and an ancient 14th Century Christmas song, arr. by Dickinson. He was accompanied by Mrs. C. Franklin Pierce, music chairman.

Miss Barbara Chmura, student at KHS, was announced as the Good Citizenship pilgrim for this year, by Mrs. William Ochs, Regent, at the business meeting of the group.

A further announcement was the decision to inform the Veterans of Foreign Wars that the name of Robert Dietz had been placed on the honor roll at Valley Forge by Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR.

Woman Rescued After Falling Into River

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—A watchman and two friends acted swiftly yesterday afternoon and rescued a woman who had fallen into the East river from a wall at 32nd street, police said.

The woman, who identified herself as Mrs. Mary Cannon, 43, of 242 East 27th street, was taken to the psychiatric ward at Bellevue Hospital, police said.

Police identified the rescuers as Raymond Byrnes, 51, a watchman of 66-17 Myrtle avenue, Glendale, Queens, employed by the Ace Builders Supply Company, at 33rd street and the East river, and two friends, Bernard Serringer, 45, a longshoreman, of 513 Third avenue, and Frank Weisman, 37, a truck driver, of 323 East 24th street.

Police reported Weisman said the woman fell into the river at 12:30 p. m. and, with Byrnes and Serringer, threw a life preserver to her, pulled her along the wall for about 100 feet until they could pull her onto a sand barge.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES FUTIA

Mildred Marie Miuccio Becomes Bride of James Futia, Albany

Miss Mildred Marie Miuccio, of Lincoln Park, and James Futia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Futia of 50 Myrtle avenue, Albany, were united in marriage Saturday, Nov. 28, at 11:45 a. m. at a Nuptial Mass held in St. Joseph's Church.

The Rev. John Simmons of this church officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Frank Rafferty was the organist. She accompanied Frank Mooney, of Albany, the soloist, in the selections, Mother, I'm Kneeling at Your Feet; Ave Maria and Mother Beloved. The church was decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums.

Escorted by her father, James Miuccio, the bride wore a floor-length gown of embroidered nylon tulle over bridal satin, fashioned with a portrait neckline, and long embroidered sleeves with pointed cuffs. The double bouffant skirts were of tulle with embroidered tulle forming a full ruffled bustle back of the skirt. A fingertip veil of French illusion was secured to a Juliet cap of small seeded pearls. She carried a white prayer book covered with small white pompons.

Miss Carmela Miuccio was maid of honor for her sister. Her gown was of shell taffeta with a beaded bodice, and a long full skirt with a pleated tulle ruffle on the bottom. Her matching taffeta hat was trimmed with pearls and a veil. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of bronze and rust chrysanthemums.

Miss Jane Futia, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Mary Catherine Ballato, niece of the bridegroom, of Albany, were bridesmaids. They wore gowns of identical style to that of the maid of honor in green. Their old-fashioned bouquets were of bronze and rust chrysanthemums.

Joseph Futia, of Albany, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Joseph Miuccio of Kingston, brother of the bride, and Francis Futia, brother of the bridegroom, of Albany, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, there was a wedding breakfast at the Barn for 75 guests.

For a motor trip through the south, the bride wore a blue suit with a beige cashmere coat with matching hat trimmed with mink, brown accessories and a corsage of pompons.

On their return, the couple will make their home in Albany.

The bride is a graduate of St. Peter's School of Nursing, Albany where she is currently employed. The bridegroom is associated with the George J. Martin Electrical Contractors, Albany.

Committee Evaluates Program
The executive committee members from Orange, Sullivan, Greene, Columbia, Dutchess and Ulster met Thursday, Dec. 3, at the First Baptist Church hall.

Miss Vera Caulum, assistant state leader, from the New York State College of Home Economics at Ithaca, met with the group.

Those present discussed the real values of the county program as they saw them. It was pointed out by those present, that the programs develop leadership and cooperation of all age groups. The educational program, which is of great value, is passed on beyond the homemaker to family members, children and into the community and nation. It develops skills and helps to conserve time, money and resources of those that belong. It helps to develop confidence in members.

Since research is done at the college there is increasing interest in health, nutrition, etc., among the members.

The executive committee members attending from Ulster county were, Mrs. William Douglas, chairman of Ellenville; Mrs. Wilbur Van Wyck, secretary, Walkkill; Mrs. George Schway, Kerhonkson; Mrs. George Sisti, Plattekill and Mrs. Thomas Goodman Lake Katrine.

A DISTRESSING PROBLEM

A very difficult problem is described in this letter: "I am the mother of a seventeen-year-old daughter. She is still in high school and is permitted to go out on dates once a week. This is usually on a Saturday night at which time she is allowed to stay out until twelve o'clock. Most of the girls in her group stay out until one and two in the morning, and apparently their parents do not object. Last Saturday my daughter came home at one o'clock and when she was reprimanded for this she burst into tears and said that she was tired of being treated like a child and always having to be the first one home. She said if her friends were permitted to stay out later she didn't see why she had to be different. This caused quite a fuss and later I got to thinking, 'what does one do in a situation of this kind when all the others are permitted to do something of which we do not really approve?' Is it better to conform than set her apart from the others in her group? I do wish you would discuss this in your column as I am sure many other parents are confronted with this same problem."

In answer, I agree that it is very difficult to make rules for your daughter that are not objected to by her friends and I don't know what you can do about it unless you live in a small town or other friendly community in which the mothers of your daughter's friends are your friends too and you can agree on rules to be exacted by all. In deciding this one, your daughters might be permitted to stay out later than twelve at an occasional dance, but as a regular Saturday night event, this hour is much too late for a girl still in high school to be out.

He Pays the Check

Dear Mrs. Post: When a man and girl go to a cafeteria for something to eat, shouldn't the man precede her so that when they reach the end of the line where the cashier is seated, he can pay for her food? If she goes first it makes a rather awkward situation.

Answer: She should go ahead of him and when they get to where the cashier is, he merely leans forward and says to the cashier, "This lady is with me, please add her food to my check."

On what occasion does a gentleman lift his hat or remove it? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Her leaflet E-15, "Manners in Public," answers the above and many other questions on manners in public. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Wealthy Widow more important when we were together."

Mrs. Auguste said there was an incident—concerning movie star Kirk Douglas—which "probably ignited the whole thing" and "started us off" last night at Lindy's Restaurant.

She said she told Dempsey she was leaving Douglas to go to Palm Beach for the Christmas holidays—after their marriage. She said Dempsey became "furious." She added that she didn't know why Dempsey was angry, and declared the invitation to Douglas was "only a friendly gesture," and "after all, he's a nice fellow."

Mrs. Auguste said Douglas had written asking her "to do anything" until he got here from Europe Dec. 15. Asked if that involved plans to marry Dempsey—which had been rumored before Thursday's announcement—she said that was "anybody's guess."

Mrs. Auguste said she wrote the Christmas invitation to Douglas in a letter yesterday, and had planned to leave it at a hotel here to be delivered to him when he arrived from Europe.

Discussing events leading to last night's breakup, Mrs. Auguste said "the whole thing was accumulating—we had different friends, different interests." She declared there is "nothing wrong" with Dempsey, she added.

"He is he, and I am I," she explained. "We're two different types of people . . . there's nothing wrong with oil. There's nothing wrong with water. But you don't mix them."

When Mrs. Auguste gave the interview in her hotel apartment last night, she had a huge bouquet of roses, snapdragons and pompons—sent earlier in the evening by Dempsey—on a table.

She said:

"He just stamped out with some candles that had been sent for the wedding under his arms."

Dempsey previously was married to Maxine Wayne, actress Estelle Taylor and singer Hannah Williams. He has two daughters, Mrs. Joan O'Flaherty, 19, of Santa Monica, Calif., and Barbara, 17, who is in high school in the same city.

Dickenson Is Wed

Big Stone Gap, Va., Dec. 7 (AP)—Wedding bells have rung for Cpl. Ed Dickenson, scarcely two weeks after his return from Korea, where the ex-war prisoner first refused repatriation, then accepted it. The marriage of Dickenson, 23, and Miss Katie Laney, 21, climaxed a courtship carried on for many months by mail while he was in the army. Last month, when Dickenson arrived in Washington, he told newsmen Katie had been non-committal to his proposal of marriage—a proposal made in his last letter from Korea.

Civil Service Pay Demand Presented To Budget Director

Albany, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Dewey administration had before it today a request from its civil service employees for salary increases that would cost the state an estimated 22 million dollars a year.

The State Civil Service Employees Assn., which claims 58,000 members among New York state's 70,000 permanent employees, is asking "an adjustment" that would raise salaries an average of 12 per cent.

The association wants also to have a present cost-of-living bonus incorporated in the regular salary scale.

The organization's demand was presented formally Saturday to T. Norman Hurd, Gov. Dewey's budget director, by association President John F. Powers after a conference here.

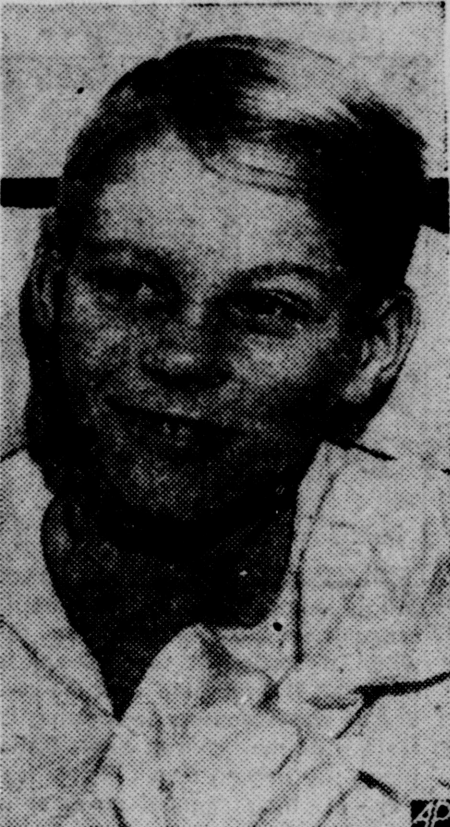

Powers said in a statement that association studies had found "state salaries are lagging at least 12 per cent behind those in industry."

There was no comment from Hurd's office.

Officer Who Broke Greenlease Case Seeks Protection

St. Louis, Dec. 7 (AP)—The police officer who broke the Bobby Greenlease kidnapping case wants police protection.

I. A. Long, president of the St. Louis Police Board, said yesterday Louis Shoulders has requested protection because of threats he has received.

He said officers would obtain a detailed statement from Shoulders on his reasons and, if justified, protection would be given.

Resigned During Inquiry

Shoulders submitted his resignation during a police board inquiry into the arrest of the kidnap-killers of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease and the recovery of about half the $600,000 ransom. The inquiry still is in progress.

The inquiry followed reports of discrepancies in police accounts of Shoulders' arrest of Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, the doomed kidnap-killers, and recovery of part of the ransom. More than $300,000 still is missing.

Jacoby on Canasta

Study Your Discard-Pile Rules

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

One of the rules that puzzles some canasta players has to do with taking a discard pile that consists of only one card. This is against the rules only when you have a hand that likewise consists of only one card. At any other time, it is perfectly proper.

Let's make this clearer by example. You have only one card in your hand, and the player at your right takes the discard pile and makes a discard (after melding, of course). It is now your turn to play, and the discard pile consists of only one card. You cannot take that one card and meld out.

If you have more than one card in your hand, it is perfectly legal to take a discard pile of only one card. (It is usually foolish to do so, but it is quite legal). Or, to take the opposite case, if you have only one card in your hand you may pick up a discard pile that consists of two or more cards.

A letter that came to me recently dragged the rule just described into a question that involved a different rule. "My side had several canastas on the board," my correspondent wrote, "including one that consisted of four nines and three wild cards. The player at my right took the pack and discarded a nine. My hand consisted of only two cards—both nines. Did I have the right to take the discarded nine and meld out?"

"If I am allowed to pick up the nine, do I start a new meld of nines or do I add the three nines to the canasta of nines?"

It seems to me that melding out has nothing to do with the question. Likewise, the fact that the discard pile consists of only one card is a red herring. The vital question is whether a player is allowed to pick up a discarded nine when his side has already melded a canasta of nines.

The official laws permit this. Many players adopt a house rule that forbids it. This is one of the points that most players settle for themselves. Some prefer the official rules, and others prefer their own rules.

If you follow the official rules, there is a very clear answer to this question. The player is allowed to pick up the nine and add all three nines to the canasta. There is no limit to the number of natural cards that you may have in a canasta (except that there are only eight of each in a deck of canasta cards). Players who follow house rules will probably forbid the meld to begin with, so there would be no question of where to put the nines.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Aided Marine, Is Beaten to Death

Los Angeles, Dec. 7 (AP)—A gang of youthful hoodlums beat a wealthy manufacturer to death in the heart of downtown Los Angeles last night when he attempted to aid a marine who was being attacked by the gang.

The victim was William D. Cluff, 56, of Hollywood, owner of the Western Chemical & Manufacturing Co., producers of asbestos products.

Police said the youths ganged up on the marine, Pfc. John W. Moore, 18, of Camp Pendleton, Calif., at the intersection of Seventh and Broadway. Moore said he was nudged in the back and when he turned one of the hoodlums snarled, "Have you got a beef, or something?"

Then Moore was slugged and the battle moved into the street. Witnesses said Cluff, who was window shopping while waiting to keep an appointment with his wife, called out: "Leave that marine alone." With this four others leaped from a nearby car and about nine youths swarmed over Cluff, beating him and knocking him to the curb. Officers said his head hit the pavement. He died en route to an emergency hospital.

Seven Are Questioned

Although the streets were crowded with pedestrians at the time, all the hoodlums fled from the scene. Later police picked up seven youths and started questioning them about the fight.

Moore, the marine, was only slightly hurt in the fight. A marine buddy of his who was not in uniform, David W. Kurth, 18, was not attacked.

Police said that before attacking the marine and Cluff the gang had attempted to pick a fight with three other men.

Cluff's wife, Dorothy, 45, said they were to meet in a downtown restaurant and after waiting for an hour she went home, not knowing that her husband was dead.

Cluff formerly lived in Arizona and his company owns asbestos claims near Globe, Ariz.

Sixty million pounds of meat are consumed daily in America, being enough to fill 15,000 two-ton trucks.

near the freezing point in the suburbs.

The tornado broke the gas main. It was repaired late yesterday, but city officials feared to turn it on—because someone might have left a gas jet open.

The search continued through the night for the body of a 17-year-old girl believed buried in the wreckage of a clothing store. Power shovels ate into the ruins of a drygoods store to reach the body of another 17-year-old, Jack Palermo, last seen bidding two customers good night as he closed the store.

An army colonel who directed the search said the youth's body was found after hours of constant digging, pinned two floors below the street level under tons of brick and mortar.

Bread Is Donated

Meanwhile grocery stores donated bread to make sandwiches. Garages and gas stations loaned trucks and wreckers. Volunteers from many Mississippi towns headed for the city located on a bluff overlooking the Mississippi river.

The twister roared out of the west, through the heart of the city, and then died out.

It aimed its deadliest punch at small children. Ten youngsters between the ages of two and 10 were among the dead.

Five were at the Saenger Theatre when the black funnel struck, collapsing the walls and toppling the roof.

The storm lasted less than a half hour, bounding across the city in three destructive leaps. A small tornado flattened a building at the Napier Field State Trade School in Dothan, Ala., Sunday. No injuries were reported.

Saturday night a tornado destroyed six houses and damaged four in a tiny Negro settlement about a mile west of Montrose, a southeastern Arkansas village. No one was reported hurt.

Another struck 40 miles north of Shreveport, La., near the juncture of Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Gain Is Reported In Bridge Travel

Traffic over the three Hudson river bridges under control of the New York State Bridge Authority last month continued showing a gain, the authority reported today.

The bridges clocked 519,952 vehicles in November, a gain of 29,307 over November, 1952, when 490,645 vehicles were clocked.

The Bear Mountain bridge had a November total of 108,803 as against 99,705 a year ago; the Mid-Hudson clocked 295,779 against 276,140; and the Rip Van Winkle showed 115,370 against 114,800.

The Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry showed a drop of 27 in pedestrian travel and 453 in vehicular travel. The ferry carried 4,973 vehicles last month and an even 5,000 a year ago. It carried 1,524 pedestrians last month and 1,977 in November, 1952.

President to Address UN immediately to Bonn, where West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer approved it today.

In their examination of European problems, Eisenhower and Churchill reportedly heard a plea yesterday from Bidault for new assurances they will maintain their military strength in Europe and will back France's demands for continued close economic union with the strategic border Saar Basin, which Germany wants "Europeanized."

These were given as part of France's price for ratification of German rearmament, as part of the projected European Defense Community (EDC).

Have No Intention

Informants said both Eisenhower and Churchill pledged that, at this time, they have no intention of reducing the combat effectiveness of the American and British forces on the European continent. Both reportedly refused to commit any fixed number of troops to continental duty, or to say how long they would keep troops on Europe's mainland.

Nor would they commit themselves to choose sides in the Saar dispute, it was said. The announcement that Eisenhower planned to address the UN came from the President's press secretary, James Hagerty.

Hagerty first told a news conference the speech, on which the President had been working for many weeks, had been "unanimously approved by the British and French leaders."

But after French and British spokesmen said their delegations had seen the speech and had no objections, Hagerty amended his announcement to conform with this. He added he had been wrong when he reported unanimous approval.

Other informants said later, however, that the President certainly would not have announced the speech against the background of the Bermuda meeting unless he had the fullest understanding with his foreign colleagues.

Amended Announcement

Newsmen got the impression that Hagerty had amended his announcement to protect the British and French from parliamentary kickbacks against implications that the unilateral American statement to the UN also would commit the two European

This expression in its popular usage needs no explanation. But when it started it was "Drunk as Blaise." It originated with the practice of wool combers celebrating the festival of their patron saint, Bishop Blaise, by getting drunk on his feast day at their annual festival at Leicester.

Governments

Hagerty emphasized Eisenhower would speak as the U. S. President, not as a spokesman reporting on the Bermuda conference. But he added that the speech, as now written, does express a common viewpoint on the perils of the atomic age.

The decision to make the atomic speech before the United Nations meant the President wanted an international forum, with Russia present, instead of a domestic audience for discussion of a problem of global scope.

The issue of arms and atomic control has been fought in the UN since its inception. Generally the deadlock between the UN majority and the Soviet bloc has turned on these points:

1. Russia insists on banning atomic, hydrogen and germ weapons as the initial step toward disarmament.
2. The western powers demand development of a system of safeguards, with the discarding of the mass destruction weapons as the final step.

Two Persons Die

Block Jr. of the Blade said in reply: "Evidently Sen. McCarthy thinks that a newspaper is dishonest if it does not follow his practice of stacking testimony in his favor."

"Sen. McCarthy called only for a one-way vote. The Toledo Blade gave its readers the opportunity to express their opinion as easily one way as the other. What's dishonest about that?"

The senator started this contest, if he now doesn't want it considered a test of popularity, it can only be because he has not found the results—here in Toledo at least—to his liking."

Statement Is Challenged

Another newspaper executive, J. D. Ferguson, president and editor of the Milwaukee Journal, challenged another of McCarthy's statements on the Radio-TV Forum.

A questioner, who did not give her name, noted McCarthy had accused the Democrats of being "soft toward communism" and asked the senator about a Nov. 10, 1946, interview in the Milwaukee Journal.

The interview, she said, quoted McCarthy as saying that "Stalin's proposal for a world disarmament is a great thing and he must be given credit for being sincere about it."

McCarthy responded, "You are completely incorrect." He said he did not recall the interview and he described the Milwaukee Journal as "one of my bitter, bitterest enemies and I do not give them interviews."

In Milwaukee last night, Editor Ferguson said: "Sen. McCarthy conveniently forgets or denies statements which might now embarrass him."

Interview Is Quoted

Ferguson said the Journal carried on Nov. 10, 1946, an interview in which McCarthy was quoted as saying: "I do not subscribe to the school that says war with Russia is inevitable. I do not believe such a war is in the offing. I believe we can and will avoid it. Russia does not want war and is not ready to fight one."

King James Version Ruled Poor for Jersey Children

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 7 (AP)—The New Jersey Supreme Court today ruled the King James version of the New Testament could not be distributed to children in the state's public schools.

In a 20-page opinion written by Chief Justice Arthur T. Vanderbilt, the court said with unanimous consent:

"To permit the distribution of the King James version of the Bible in the public schools of this state would be to cast aside all the progress made in the United States and throughout New Jersey in the field of religious toleration and freedom."

"We would be renewing the ancient struggles among the various religious faiths to the detriment of all. This we must decline to do."

Taylor Defends Service Record

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Telford Taylor, former government official and a retired brigadier general, has termed "unfounded and false" questions about his loyalty raised by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

"I am sure my record in the government, both civilian and military, will bear any scrutiny on matters of loyalty and security," Taylor said Saturday night in New York, where he now practices law.

McCarthy earlier in the day had made public a letter to the superintendent of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving, asking who invited Taylor to speak at the academy recently.

He also asked Irving "whether or not those responsible were aware of the background of his (Taylor's) loyalty case." McCarthy showed newsmen a photograph of what he said was a civil service card on Taylor. It was marked "unresolved question of loyalty" at the time Taylor left his job as administrator of small defense plants on Sept. 18, 1952.

In his West Point speech, Taylor had criticized the search McCarthy, as chairman of the Senate's investigating subcommittee, has been making for subversion at the Army Signal Corps laboratory at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Civil Service Commission officials said individual loyalty cases are confidential and that they could not comment. They said, however, that if there is an unresolved question of loyalty against someone who has left government service, no action would be taken to clear it up unless he again sought a federal job.

Among his government positions, Taylor served as prosecutor at the Nazi war crimes trials in Germany.

Last Tuesday a traditional Thanksgiving Day dinner was enjoyed by the entire student body at the Marbletown Central School. The following ladies volunteered to help Leon Guillon serve and to assist with the younger children in the cafeteria. They were Mrs. M. Osterhoudt, C. Schoonmaker, L. Masten, Davenport, G. oners might still be in Red prison, but said: "In the face of... evidence I charge your side with a violation of the armistice agreement... (and) false statements."

He denied Red charges that the UNV had tried to intimidate the Repatriation Commission and that Allied "agents" had been planted in the neutral zone compounds.

Lacey said the Reds are attempting to blame everyone but themselves for a breakdown in their explanations to anti-Red Korean and Chinese POWs. More than 20,000 of the 22,600 handed over by the Allies have not been interviewed. Only 70 have been won back by the interviews.

"Responsibility is Yours"
"You simply choose not to explain," Lacey said. "The responsibility is yours."

In the peace conference negotiations, Young reviewed the Communist position in detail "to take stock as to where our discussions are going."

Young, who is the State Department's Northeast Asia expert, told newsmen after the meeting that the Reds replied to his summary with a "long, repetitious and essentially propaganda statement" which did not say anything "not heard before."

The talks resume Tuesday (9 p. m., EST).

The dragging negotiations left Indian Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Repatriation Commission chairman, uncertain what he would do with the remaining prisoners if the conference does not begin soon.

Thimayya said he would seek guidance from his government in New Delhi. Prime Minister Nehru already has indicated he feels the two sides should take up the question again.

Zwirn Arrested On Larceny Count By Local Police

Sam Zwirn, 31, of 29 Miller's Lane, was arrested on a warrant executed Saturday by Officers Edward Leonard and Raymond Wells, and charging second degree grand larceny.

Papers filed with authorities lists Mrs. Clara K. Morris, of New Paltz as complainant, and allege that on May 27, 1953, she took to the business place of Zwirn, at 277 Fair street, a lavender on a silver chain and one on a pendant, one containing "two diamonds and many diamond chips," and the other, "two or three chips."

Zwirn, she charges, was to remove the diamonds and several chips to be placed in a ring setting "the deponent had selected." He was to return what was not to be used, it is charged, and the ring setting was to be ready in "a couple of weeks," to be given as a graduation gift in June.

WAGES OF SIN ARE HANDBALL

For years now, I've been buying insurance from a fellow named Joe Ginter with whom I used to exchange aggies and spitballs at P.S. 44 almost half a century ago. Joe drops in to see me once a month "to service the account," as he puts it but, as near as I can make out, the real purpose of our get-togethers is to "hash over old times."

The other day, for instance, we got to gabbing about the kids in our graduating class, and Joe happened to mention Allen Gillis who had played center on our basketball team.

"Last I heard of Gillis," I said, "and it must have been twenty years ago, he wasn't doing so well."

"You're being charitable about it," said Joe. "Twenty years ago Gillis was a bum, and chances are he'd be dead today if he had bought the insurance policy I tried to sell him."

"Sounds as if you're knocking your own racket," I said.

"Let me explain," said Ginter. "When I met up with Gillis shortly after I started selling insurance, he was drinking more than he could handle and chasing around quite a bit. And this despite the fact that he had a wife and a couple of kids."

"Strictly as a friend, I urged him to buy a life insurance policy—told him frankly he didn't figure to last long at the clip he was going."

"Well, I didn't have to argue about it. Gillis admitted he had been worrying about what might happen to his family if he conked out, and that life insurance sounded like a good idea. So I arranged an appointment for him next day with one of the company doctors. But it was no soap—the doc phoned me after the examination and said he didn't think my friend was a good risk—that he had all the symptoms of an alcoholic."

"I lost track of Gillis after that until I met up with him at the City Athletic Club a couple of years ago. He was just coming off the handball court, and looked fit enough to go ten rounds with Kid Gavilan. I waited for him to get dressed, and later over a cup of coffee he told me what had happened."

"It seems that when the company doctor turned him down, Gillis, for the first time in his fool life, got scared. Not so much scared for himself, but about what might happen to his wife and kids. The only solution the way he figured it was to work out a method of insuring himself. Insurance, after all, was nothing more than a fancy way of saving—you paid in such-and-such sums and got protection for such-and-such a period. So, if the insurance company didn't want to hold his money because he was a bad risk, why couldn't he get the same result by putting a certain amount away regularly in a bank?"

"Well, this self-insurance notion worked out even better than Gillis had expected. For one thing, he had never known the feeling of security which comes with having a bank account, and before long the idea of building up this security became an obsession with him. For another, once the saving habit took hold, he started paying attention to his work and, as might be expected, his pay checks began to get bigger. Encouraged by his success—and wanting more of the same—he began passing up the hootch and paying a little attention to his health.

"Well, to give it to you quickly, Gillis is a rich man, and as far as his physical condition is concerned, he could probably go back to playing center on our basketball team."

"Nice story," I said. "The moral, I suppose, is that I ought to cancel my life insurance and take up handball."

"I wouldn't advise it," said Joe. "If you took up handball with that watermelon under your belt, chances are no company would handle your insurance." (Copyright, 1935, by Billy Rose) (Distributed by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Jet Is Grounded

High Point, N. C. (AP)—Jerry Smith, 13, watched a television demonstration of jet propulsion.

Jerry and brother Wayne, 15, tried it. They placed baking powder, vinegar and water in a glass jar. Holes were punched in the lid for escaping gas. But a piece of paper in the lid blocked the holes. Jagged glass from the explosion missed Wayne but pierced Jerry's neck, just missing the jugular vein. Bandaged and scared, Jerry renounced homemade science.

Rowe's Shoe Store Rolls 2621 for Class A Title in KWBA Tourney

New Paltz Captures 'B'; Lapine Leads All-Events

Powered by Charlotte Lapine's brilliant shooting, the Rowe Shoe Store team of the Woman's Classic League, captured the Class A championship of the 13th annual Kingston Woman's Bowling Association tournament Saturday at the Central Recs.

Mrs. Lapine, the KWBA president, furnished a 627 series to Rowe's 2621 total. She fired games of 183, 197 and 247 which was the highest individual solo of the tournament.

The veteran ace then rolled on to the Class A all-events crown with a nine-game slam of 1738, one of the highest in the history of the event. She rolled 627 in the team, 526 doubles and 585 singles and had only one miss in 90 frames of bowling. The 1738 total represented a 193 average per game.

In the championship team effort by Rowe's Mayme Hutton shot 425, Thelma Clausi 458, Fannie Battaglino 412 and Tess Moss 458.

Nellie Alverson (453) and Faye Horne (515) shot 1178 to win the Class A doubles. They had 968 actual pinnage and 210 handicap. Winnie Overfield nosed out Mrs. Lapine for the A singles crown with a 656 gross on 172-166-213-551 net and 105 handicap.

New Paltz Savings Bank rolled 2397 with 105 handicap for the Class B team title. Pat Millham set the pace with 495. Livia Tenedini fired 488, Kay Houska 486, Esther Ott 458 and Virginia Lillberg 365.

Pat Millham and Virginia Lillberg shot 1058 gross for the "B" doubles and Sally Kuehn of Kingston finished with a neat 220 solo in the singles for 532 net and 562 gross for the "B" title.

Faye Horne is the new Class B all-events champion with 1504. She had 480 in the team, 515 doubles and 509 singles. Doris Gillen of Rosendale won the Peter Keresman Trophy for rolling most pins over entered average for the second time in three years. Her 1445 all-events represented 275 pins over her entered average of 130 per game.

It was the highest triple compiled in local leagues last night and another in the long list compiled by the Hudson Valley League ace.

While Howard was hammering his big count for the Central Lunch squad, Rita LaRocca rolled a hefty 573 for Styles Express, the opposing team. Mrs. LaRocca had 500 on 210-199-164. Don Sickler rolled 203-520 and Dick Waltman shot a 208-201-578. The other "500" score was John Brady's 524.

• The Eleventh Frame:
Jones Dairy's 3328 and 3308 HVBL slams have been certified by the ABC's high score division as the 11th and 13th highest team totals in the country this season.

Pepsi-Cola of St. Louis leads the nation with 3580. Other leaders: Pfeiffer Beer, Detroit, 3513; King Louie Shirts, Plains, Pa., 3485; Authorized Brakes, St. Louis, 3436; King Louie Shirts, Plains, Pa., 3409. The prediction here is that Jones Dairy will crash the 3500 mark before the season is over. They hold the all-time Kingston mark of 3414. Janet Hines, a 141-average bowler, marked with a 523 net in her KWBA tournament singles. Morris Cramer of Chicago has moved among the top 13 bowlers in the nation in rolling three consecutive 1800 all-events in the ABC. His 1951-53 counts are 1843, 1825, 1817. Don McClaren, 28, of St. Louis, has rolled five consecutive 1800s to lead the country. The record string of eight 1800s was set in 1932 by Joe Bodis of Cleveland and tied by Joe Wilman of Chicago in 1949.

• A Fabulous Blast:
Wonder how many of the newer set of women bowlers realize that a group of Kingston girls once smashed a tremendous 2594 series in an exhibition match against Newburgh?

It was the fabulous Kaye Sportswear squad of the 1946-47 season and the record score was achieved at the Central Rec alleys with game totals of 935, 986 and 1073. At the time the triple was the second highest in the U. S. and the 1037 third among the singles.

Rose Schatzel anchored with 664 and Charlotte Lapine fired 619. Evelyn Moore (now Gross) shot 577 in the leadoff spot and Betty Boyce (now Bailey) had 586 as the sandwich gal. Marge Jansen posted 548 as the sub-anchor.

That day they walloped the five best women bowlers of Newburgh by 493 pins. Take a look at these scores. The city hasn't seen any-knocked pins down at the merriest clip of the 1953-54 season last week.

Right at the top of the heap in the pinfest were the King and Queen of the Hudson valley keggers.

Rose Schatzel led the female contingent with a thumping 691 series, losing a "700" slam by a 7-10 split in the 30th frame.

Johnny Ferraro's 688 overshadowed the male division.

The male sharpies accounted for 31 series of 600 or better and it took 632 to make the Big Ten compared with 602 a week previously.

The women were equally prolific, racking up 18 triples of 300 or more, and you needed 519 to crash the elite circle.

Marie Kelekian continued to hammer the pins in major league style with 589 and Nellie Alverson moved among the giants with 576. Eleanor Singer kept rolling with 545 and 553. Bonnie Reilly came up with another nice series — 527.

Her nomination for Bowler of the Week honors goes to Pete Nagy. High scores are expected from Johnny Ferraro and Rose Schatzel but Pete cracking 658 and 608 had the best week of his career. Nagy is a nice young chap who has always been interested in the game.

Ken Joseph, who has yet to have a prediction come true, has a new one. Bowling's Drew Pearson predicts that no member of the Jones Dairy squad will roll "600" in the forthcoming duel with Rapp's Express on alleys 5 and 6 at the Bowlodrome. The line of takers forms on the right.

New Record Is Set
Tampa, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP)—A B47 stratjet bomber flew non-stop from England to MacDill Air Force Base here yesterday in 8 hours and 53 minutes, clipping 14 minutes off the old record for the 4480 miles. "Aside from strong headwinds we encountered no difficulties," Col. William E. Creer of Spanish Fork, Utah, commander of the bomber, said. The B47 was one of the 45 in the 305th Bomb Wing, which has been on a 90-day training mission at Brize Norton Field in England.

Schryver Lumber Upsets Poughkeepsie Cabs on Bridge City Alleys

Rally in Last Two Games for Reversal of Year

Shufeldt Sets Pace For Locals With 640

Schryver Lumber rallied from a 204-pin shellacking in the first game to sweep the next two from the league leading Poughkeepsie Cabs in a surprising reversal of form Saturday on the Bridge City planks.

It was a bitter setback for the high flying Cabs who were warming up for a typically big series slam when the Lumberjacks bounced back to win the second set, 977-922, and then take the final, 1009-955.

The loss reduced the Cabs' lead over Jones Dairy to one game and temporarily silenced a lot of talk about the superiority of Bridge City keggers.

Naturally, the Schryver victory came as happy news to the Dairy-men who swept three games from Arlington Lanes at the Bowldrome with a modest 3062.

In other local matches, Eddie Heins' 619 led Rapp's Express to a 2-1 win over Fogg-Nash of Poughkeepsie.

Elston Sports won three from the Academy at Poughkeepsie as Joe Ruzzo set the pace with 225-199-171-595.

Shufeldt Cracks 640
Capt. George Shufeldt showed the way for Schryvers with a hat trick slam of 213-211-216 for 640.

The Lumberjacks used six men and Randy Kelder sparked in a relief role with a two-game set of 202-226-428.

What made the Cab setback all the more galling was the fact they had four men in the "600" circle. George Baird fired 201-233-626. Dick Rhea posted 212-606. Jake Charter, who left the alleys with his chin scraping the floor, fired 255-205-644 and Phil Versace had 227-601.

Brookie Shoots 659
Jones Dairy won its first game from Arlington Lanes with a modest 955 then rallied in typical style with 1030 and 1077.

Climbing steadily toward the "200" average bracket, Harold Brookie led the Dairy-men with a 213-192-254-659 slam. Larry Weishaup shot 204-205-603 and Johnny Ferraro anchored with 202-218-221-641.

Ed Heins compiled his 619 series with 226-214-179 against Fogg-Nash but Bill McCarthy of the losers had the highest triple with 214-214-228-656.

Lions Cinch Tie in Western; Browns Defeat Giants, 62-14

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Only the New York Giants, one of the weaker National Football League eleven, stood between the Detroit Lions and another Western Division title today.

The Lions, winners of the 1952 crown, clinched at least a tie for the division lead yesterday by defeating the Chicago Bears 13-7. By winning, they maintained their one game margin over the San Francisco 49ers, who walloped the Green Bay Packers 48-14.

If yesterday's performance by the Giants means anything, Detroit is a cinch to win next week-end. The New Yorkers were the victims in Cleveland's 11th straight victory as the Eastern Division champions compiled their highest total in four years 62-14. The championship game is scheduled for Dec. 27 on the field of the Western Division leaders.

In other games, the Pittsburgh Steelers downed the winless Chicago Cardinals 21-17 and the Washington Redskins blanked the Philadelphia Eagles 10-0. Los Angeles swamped Baltimore 45-2 Saturday. However, yesterday's Detroit victory mathematically eliminated the Rams from the Western Division race.

Washington, by holding Philadelphia scoreless for the first time in 11 years, deadlocked with the Eagles for second place in the Eastern Division.

Boston Celtics Start Rolling
The Boston Celtics, off to a poor start in the National Basketball Association, are picking up ground now that Ed Macauley and Bob Cousery are back in stride.

With Macauley tossing in 35 points and Cousery 22, the Celtics moved into third place in the circuit's eastern division yesterday by whipping the Baltimore Bullets in overtime 102-95. Fort Wayne edged Syracuse 88-87 in the league's only other game.

The win was the Celtics' second in less than 24 hours. They downed Milwaukee 97-79 Saturday night.

Larry Foust's 31 points sparked Fort Wayne to its triumph over the Nationals. The Pistons led almost all the way, although they had a scare in the final ten seconds when Jim Beal's jump shot for Syracuse rolled off the basket.

Hawks Shut Out Red Wings, 5-0
When the lowly Chicago Black Hawks can shut out, much less defeat, the high-scoring Detroit Red Wings, you can't tell what to expect in the National Hockey League.

The Hawks did it last night, handing the second place Wings a 5-0 wallop to drop the losers three points behind league-leading Montreal, which swamped the Boston Bruins 7-2. The New York Rangers played a 3-3 tie with the Toronto Maple Leafs in the circuit's other game.

The Hawks, who lost two games to Detroit last weekend by 9-0 and 9-4, scored twice within the first two minutes. Goalie Al Rollins, playing his second game since recovering from chicken pox, turned back 40 shots in chalking up his third shutout. Defenseman Al Dewsbury had two of Chicago's goals.

De Marco on TV
New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Paddy De Marco, the No. 9 lightweight from Brooklyn, faces Carlos Chavez of Los Angeles, in the main event at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena tonight. The aggressive Brooklyn Billygoat is an 11 to 5 favorite over Chavez, who is making his New York debut as a main eventer. Dumont will telecast the bout.

Ed Cunningham shot 546, Frank Passer 211-555, Art Smith 213-518, Red Gorsline 508, J. Lukas 522, Jim Hotaling 559, Jim Noble 202-560.

The Barn Leads
The Barn quintet holds a three-game lead over Shamrock Grill at the end of the first round of play with 27 wins and 12 losses.

Marks Hits 250 Record

Eddie Marks set a new high single record of 250 in the Tavern Association League Saturday night at the Bowldrome.

The veteran pinbuster also took down high series honors with 589, adding 187 and 152 to the new record.

Several keggers rolled "500" in one of the best scoring productions of the season.

Claude Markle shot 527, Bill Johnson 539 and Ed Heins had 203-523. Charlie Bock hit 502, Eddie Esposito 527, Don McConnell 519, Claude Markle 524, Bill Johnson 508, J. Crowell 236-530, Tom Orr 508, Eddie Heins 244-586.

Ed Cunningham shot 546, Frank Passer 211-555, Art Smith 213-518, Red Gorsline 508, J. Lukas 522, Jim Hotaling 559, Jim Noble 202-560.

No Point Shaving
"There will be no point shaving this year," Coach Rupp says, sarcastically.

"When we run up one of those 95 or 97 point totals—and we used to do it often—and there's still a couple of minutes to play, I'm not going to pull my boys up and have them stand around at midcourt and try to hold the score down so we don't humiliate somebody. We'll just keep playing our game and let the other guy worry."

Hagan, Ramsey Back
Baron Rupp, in his 23rd year as coach at Lexington, has a powerhouse headed by 1951-52 All-Americans Cliff Hagan and Frank Ramsey. He also has a southpaw corner in Phil Grawemeyer, 6-foot-seven-and-a-half, and is kept busy in veterans of the Lou Tsioropoulos, Bill Evans and Willie Rouse type.

Hagen is a 6-4 brute who has whippet-like speed and a double-figure scoring eye. Ramsey is six-three. Tsioropoulos is six-five and can murder you from outside or underneath. Grawemeyer is a sophomore, tireless runner and his presence in the starting lineup indicates that the year Rupp spent with him in practice sessions more than paid off.

The Wildcats were hit by the suspension after troubles were multiplied by a battery of charges against their athletic policies from all corners. They came as an outgrowth of the fixing scandal which saw Nick English, a former Wildcat football player and Alex Groza and Ralph Beard, former basketball standouts, found guilty of doing business on the outcome of Kentucky games.

A Brand New Group
When the year's enforced lay-off finally was announced, however, most of the players affected by it hadn't been in school when point monkeying was going on. They couldn't realize why they were being punished and the brown-suited Rupp was of the same mind. The result was a fuming and embittered basketball team, patiently practicing on a daily basis through the entire 1953-53 season.

Ramsey and Tsioropoulos were supposed to be graduated last June but remained to play their last year of eligibility. Practically every one of Kentucky's 14 home games is a guaranteed 14,000 sellout.

Kentucky, After Year's Suspension, Plans To Pile It On With Vet Basketball Team

Lexington, Ky.—(NEA)—The story goes that a bitter Adolph Rupp has ordered a new scoreboard—one with three digits—to keep pace with his Kentucky basketball team.

But visitors to the school's $4,000,000 Coliseum don't bother looking around for it. What they see on the gleaming mahogany court is enough to hold anybody's attention.

They see a tall, talented and terrific Kentucky team which is bent on rolling it up on any group of five college basketball players which dares take the floor against them. Back from a one-year lay-off because of NCAA disciplinary action, Rupp and his Wildcats are stronger than ever.

Stroh's Keep Title

Detroit, Dec. 7 (AP)—Stroh's five-man team came from behind to beat Pfeiffer's by 167 pins and retain its world match game bowling championship, 24,351 to 24,184 last night. Both are Detroit teams. Pfeiffer's led until Stroh's broke through in the 22nd game of the 24-game match. Stroh's overcame a Pfeiffer lead of 33 pins in that game and came out leading by 16 pins themselves. In the next game they opened the margin to 47 pins and added 120 pins in the final game to make their 167 total margin.

TOTAL POWER means just what it says. It means, to begin with, a great advance in sheer high-compression POWER under the toughest driving conditions. It means POWER to start fast on cold winter days... POWER for fast warm-up... POWER to counteract stalling caused by carburetor icing on cold, damp days... POWER to kill off knocks and pings... POWER to take steep hills in stride... POWER to pickup swiftly from a standstill. It means that in the total of the jobs your engine will be called on to do this winter, you can expect the maximum that can be obtained from any gasoline you can buy. For the very newest in "Happy Motoring" try New "TOTAL POWER" ESSO EXTRA in your car today!

Total working horsepower for the highest-compression cars! For many late model high-compression cars new "Total Power" Esso Extra Gasoline now makes it possible for the first time to enjoy full engine performance without a trace of knock or ping.

Total working horsepower for many new cars where total performance is now kept "under wraps" by retarding the spark to avoid knocking. These cars may now be set to fully efficient timing, giving owners more horsepower, better gasoline mileage, too!

Total working horsepower wherever "cold engine stalling" is a critical problem on cool, moist days. Contains a special additive that protects against stalling caused by carburetor icing, permits maximum possible power-flow from the time you start your engine.

Total working horsepower can benefit present users of "regular" gasoline who drive mostly in short trips around town. Now, by simply switching to new "Total Power" Esso Extra, they can get better mileage this winter... better all-around performance, too.
